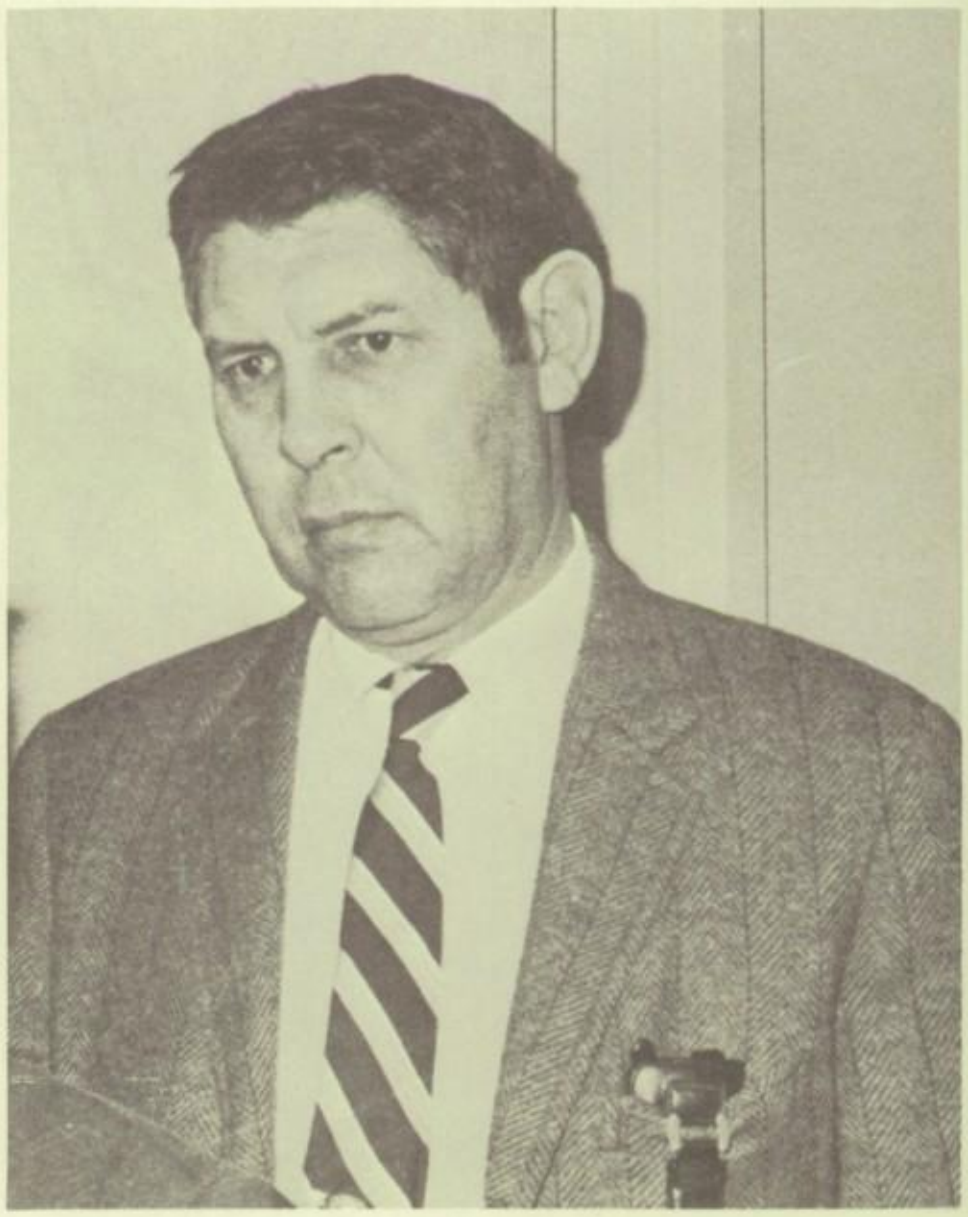
top jobs a responsibility

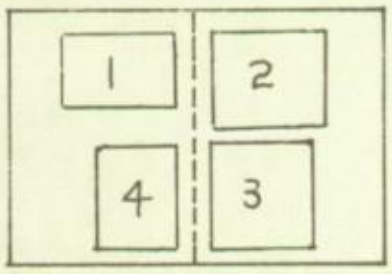
a high school is like a machine. within the vast, complicated entrails lie a few special cogs; they are the keys to operation. without them . . . well.

a principal and his assistants are those cogs; they keep the school running regardless of what may happen. when you go down the hall by the office, you enter the realm of principal, robert healy and his assistants, fr. richard mclernan and mr. richard mattingly.

fr. mclernan assumes the task of figuring out the complexities of the 6-day cycle. mr. mattingly controls the extracurriculars and provides the athletic deparrment with good, sound programs.

fr. healy — he gets caught in the middle. the burden of trying to coordinate these completely opposites is a monumental one.

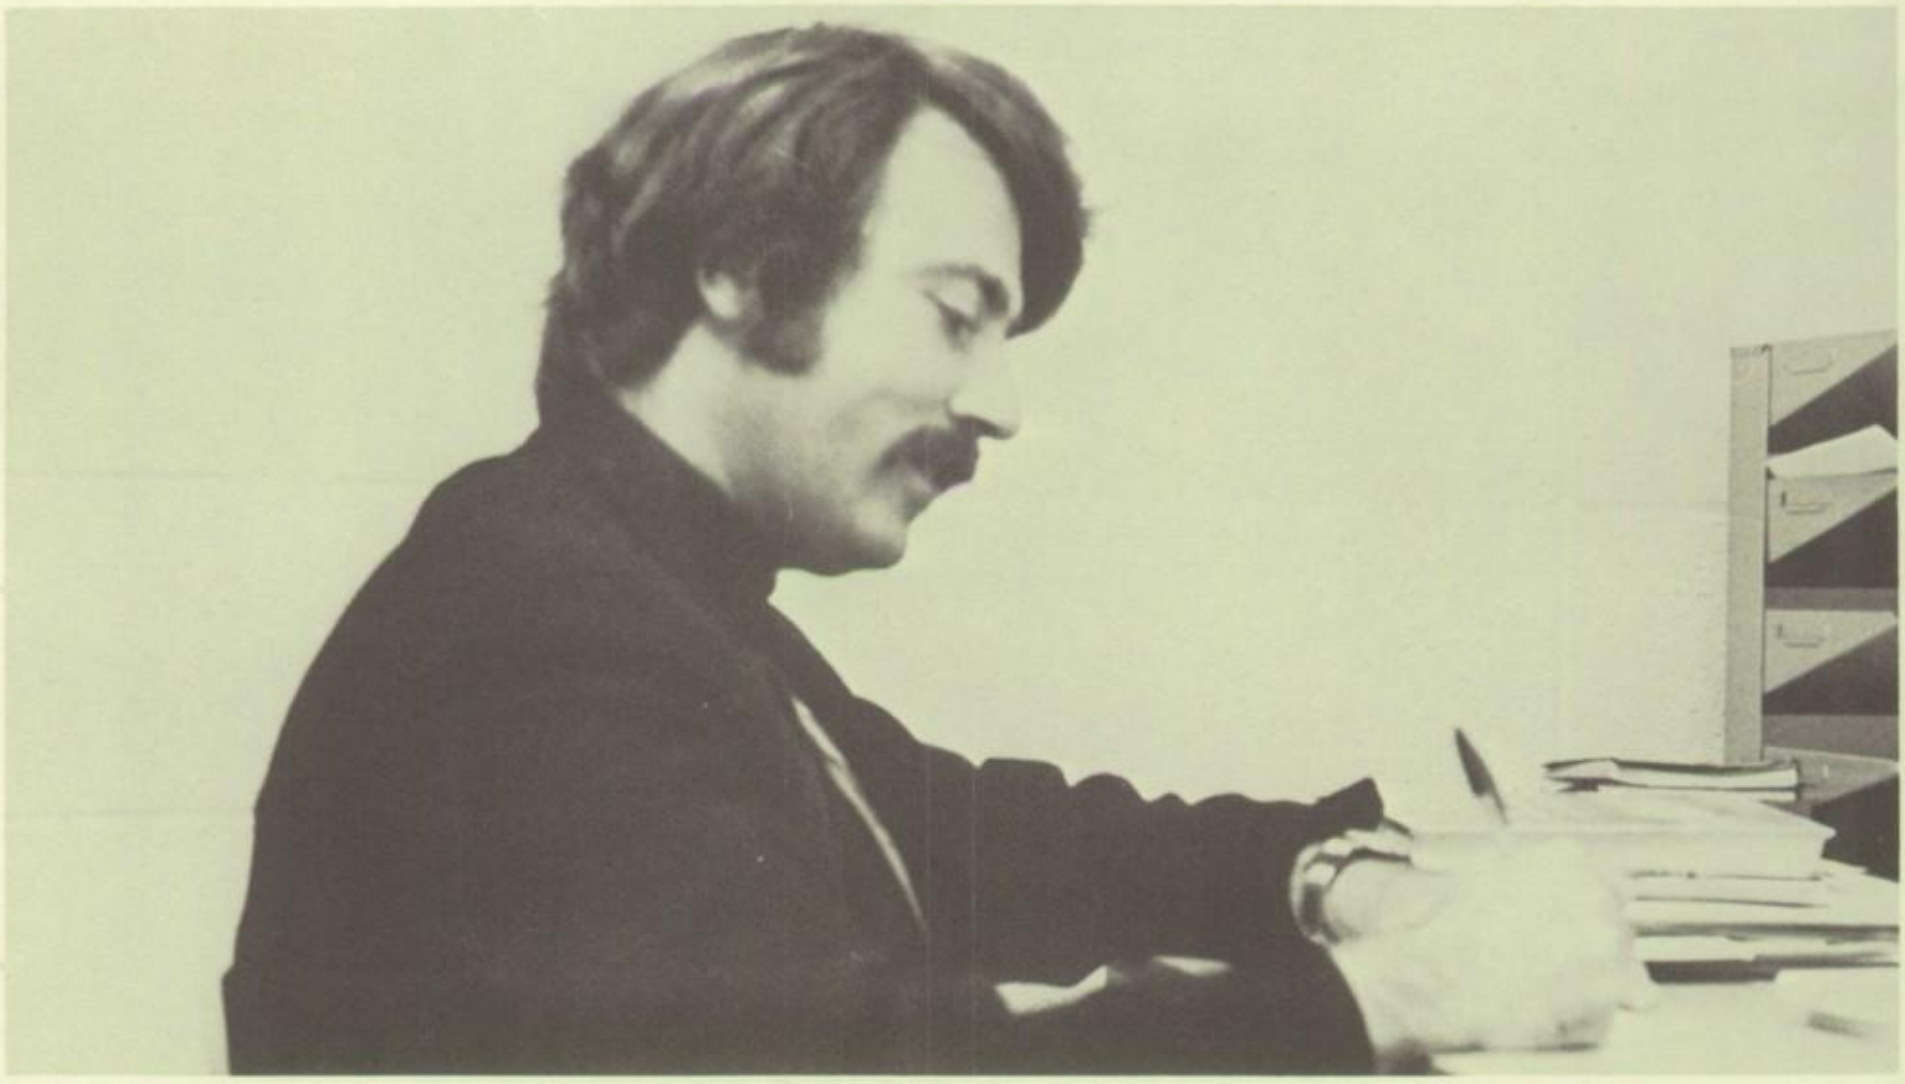


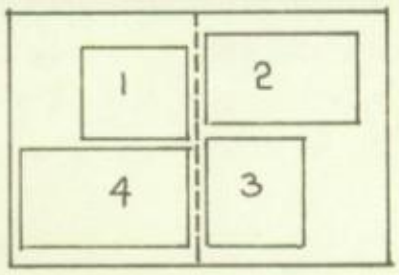


1. the rev. r.l. mc lernan osfs. 2. father healy makes an important decision. 3. student-administration relations are very important. 4. richard c. mattingly, vice-principal.

new names, same old jobs

this year st. francis went to a new, revolutionary system of controlling the obnoxious hooligans that wander the school halls from 8:30 to 2:40. a four man committee composed of fr. landgraff, fr. forti, fr. cutter, and fr. whalen now handle the often despised but necessary job, once taken care of by a lone faculty member.





1. the rev. thomas landgraff osfs, seniors. 2. the rev. james cutter osfs, freshmen. 3. the rev. david whalen osfs, juniors. 4. the rev. richard forti osfs, sophomores.

as the month of august passes into the balmy days of september, the thoughts of all st. francis students turn to the upcoming nine months of fun and frivolity awaiting them on west bancroft. seniors open the doors to look at their last year of high school and back upon three years of memories. most students try to battle mountains of books, comparable only to everest, which stares them in the face. new big brothers walk into classrooms to find 30 frosh looking up to them for guidance and sometimes protection in this brave new world. the opening days of school are intermixed with feelings of sadness for some, joy for others, but symbolizes the rising of the sun for a new dawn in each person's life.

the '72 crop of knight grid prospects was billed as inexperienced from the very start. and from the very start they fit the name to a tee. in each of the first three games the knights were defeated by overwhelming scores. in the first two games, they managed to stay close up to the half, but were blasted in the second half by both whitmer and lima senior. basically the coaching staff had excellent material to work with, but the lack of playing time manifested itself in the form of fumbles and interceptions. these mistakes proved instrumental in the first two defeats. in the annual struggle against the irish of central, the knights tried valiantly, but were outclassed by what proved to be the region's number two team.

the year 1972 had promised to be a successful one for the cross country program. with the unexpectedly poor turnout of returning lettermen and the announcement of a rookie coach it appeared that the harriers were in trouble.

the skeptics were immediately silenced. as soon as the first times came in the picture grew clear: young coach, pat geraghty had a sleeper on his hands. previous efforts of richard yost manifested themselves in the superb performances of gary bryan and jim deckleman. these outstanding runners, compliments by fresh faces from the frosh and sophomores combined to give sfs a good solid team for 1972.

this year provided the students with a wealth of assemblies, liturgies, and rallies to broaden the minds of the students and to provide an interesting respite from the daily doldrums of class. the assemblies surpassed in quantity and quality those of previous years, covering everything from atomic energy to politics. several moving liturgies, including the thanksgiving mass and the christmas penance service, furthered the religious development of the knights. the rallies pushed the spirit of the knights to heights never before attained. the very foundations of the gym shook to the voice of the knights.

during the year the student body of st. francis has many heroes. during the fall the football players stand above all others. during the winter we have a new set of heroes to go along with our new activities, and during the spring yet another set of heroes take the place of those that were idolized in the winter. however, one group of young men who are always there but are never really noticed is the band. throughout most of the year the group leads us in our support of the heroes we idolize. under the able leadership and guidance of mr. zapletal and fr. prentice the band strives not only to entertain us, but also to bring the spirit of the student body back when enthusiasm wanes.

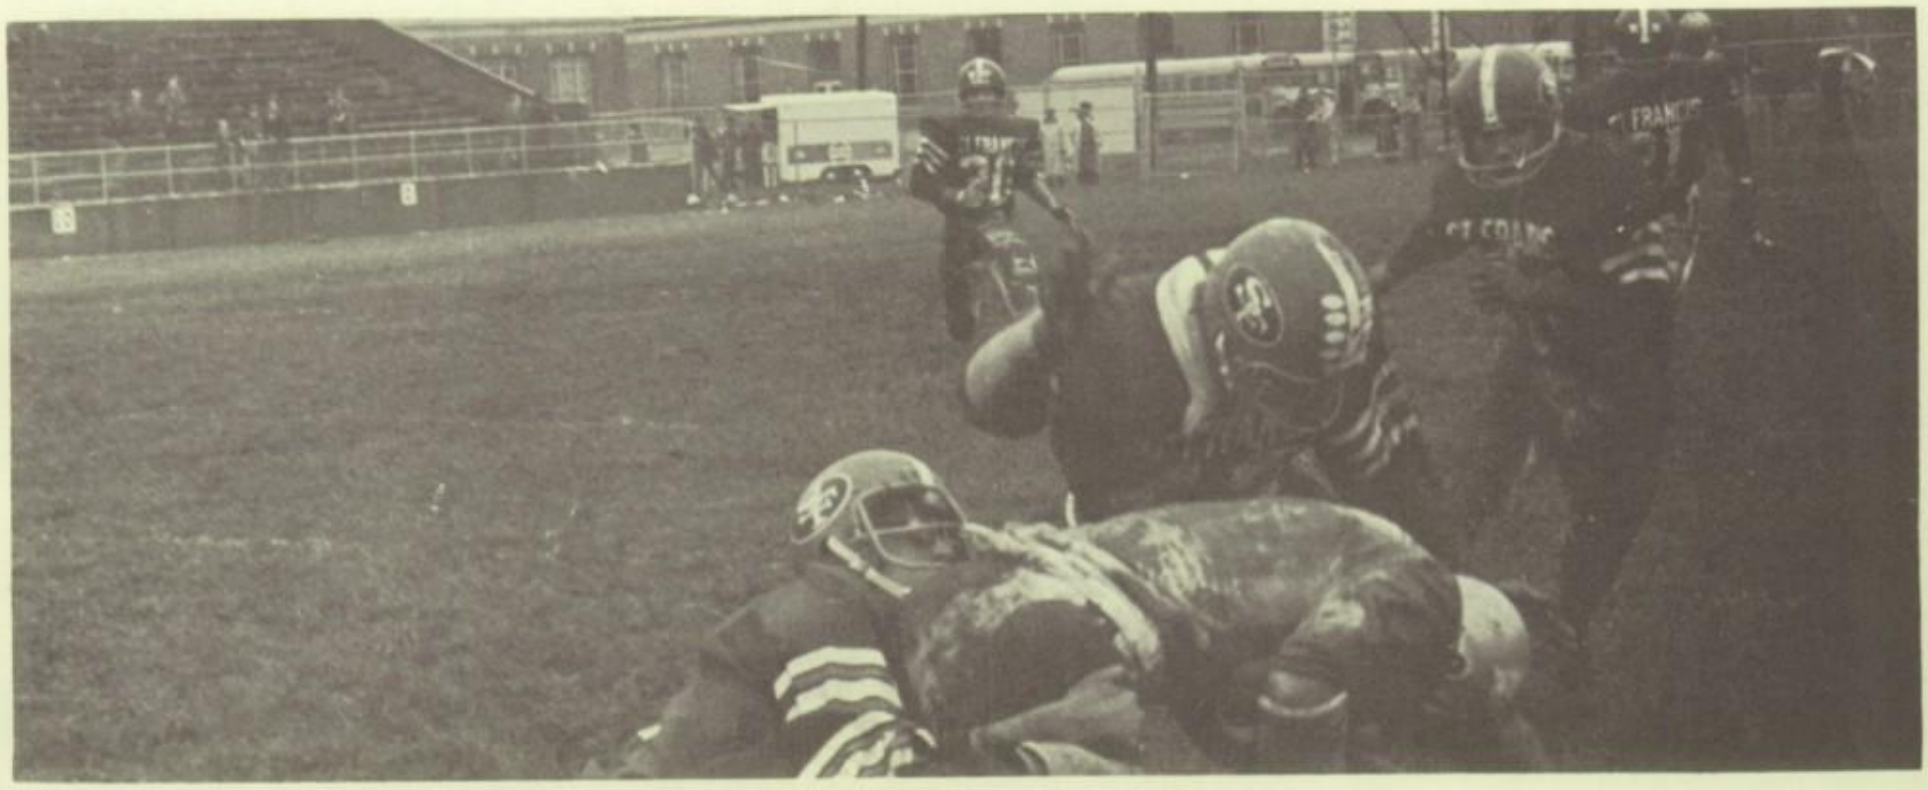
dance sets scene for sinking the festivities of the homecoming dance and rally foreshadowed the imminent destruction of the mighty titans. led by the waves of knife, the couples danced around the rapidly sinking titan. the occasion was highlighted by the crowning of jane krueger as homecoming queen. the rally on saturday completed the preparations: chris spiller's speech set the mood while jane krueger provided the inspiration. everything was finished; the knights were ready to capsize st. john's.



titans sunk by knight's iceberg

a funeral procession through the mist brought the knights to page stadium, where they were to bury the titans under an icy onslaught. after putting the game away in the first half a radiant court was presented to an enthusiastic crowd. after all the formalities had been completed, the big red machine chipped out a 42-14 grave for the titans.

the spirit which the knights have been looking for over the past years finally arrived at st. francis this year. our spirit showed in all its glory. we outcheered all comers, aiding in every game, match, and meet that the knights participated in. this spirit was spurred on by the efforts of our dauntless cheerleaders who kept the knights spirit from waning in the times of trial. also instrumental in the renewed spirit of st. francis was the spirit committee. led by the seniors, soon all classes were painting signs, hoping to push the knight's spirit even higher. spirit is alive and well at st. francis.

the beginning of the city league competition acted as the spark for the knight bonfire. easily smothering libby and waite, the coaches moved their massive machine into place for the homecoming game. the team appeared to be stronger than ever in its win over the titans. rogers fought hard in the knights' next game, but the rams got burnt in the end. the big game came against the cardinals of stritch. when the smoke cleared, the knights had beaten stritch, but had lost to the officials. the cards got the thanksgiving turkey; the knights got the bone. all hope gone, the team fell to bowsher and wound up the season at 5-5.

the little knights were excellent this year. the freshmen team under the coaching of mr. geha was a leader in the league with a very fine record. the jv's, losing several sophomores to the varsity, served as a farm club for the older team. despite the absence of these players, the jv's posted an undefeated record.

outlook for cagers: fantastic

poise and maturity were the mark of the knights of the roundball this year. it was shown everytime that the knights charged out onto the court. while the other teams were pushing, the knights remained cool, calm and collected, and worked their plays. this poise and maturity was the result of 4 years of constant practice and determination. it all paid off this year. by mid-season, the team was undefeated, crushing every opponent under a mass of basketball talent. the prospects for the rest of the season were bright, and the scent of a championship was in the air.

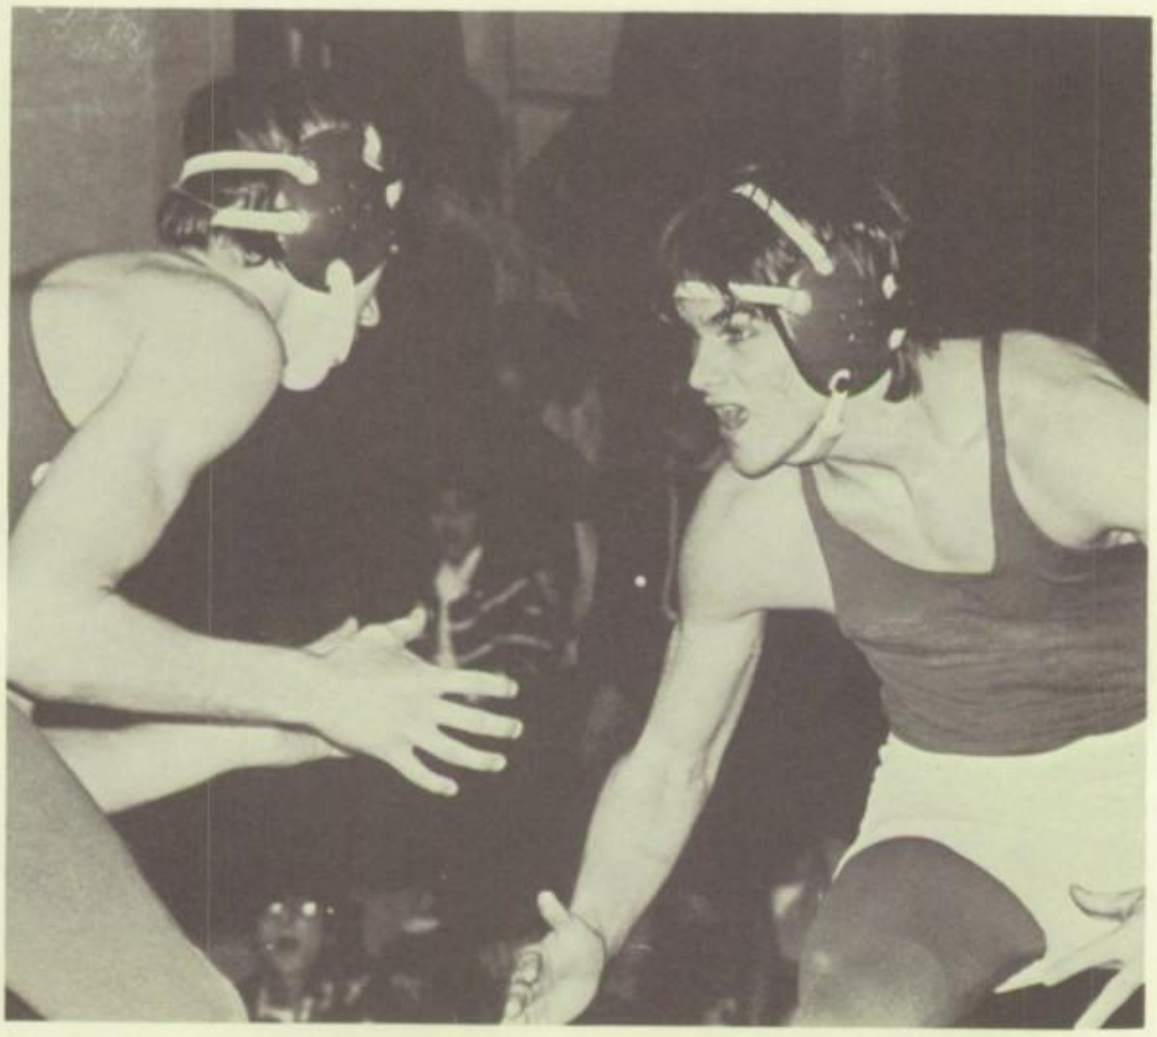
grapplers keep on pinning



this year again, the best the city had to offer fell before the unstoppable wrestling machine of st. francis. marked by strength in all weight classes, the wrestling knights maintained the endless winning streak by soundly defeating all challengers. our wrestling knights arose and battled bravely, and victory was theirs, and ours.

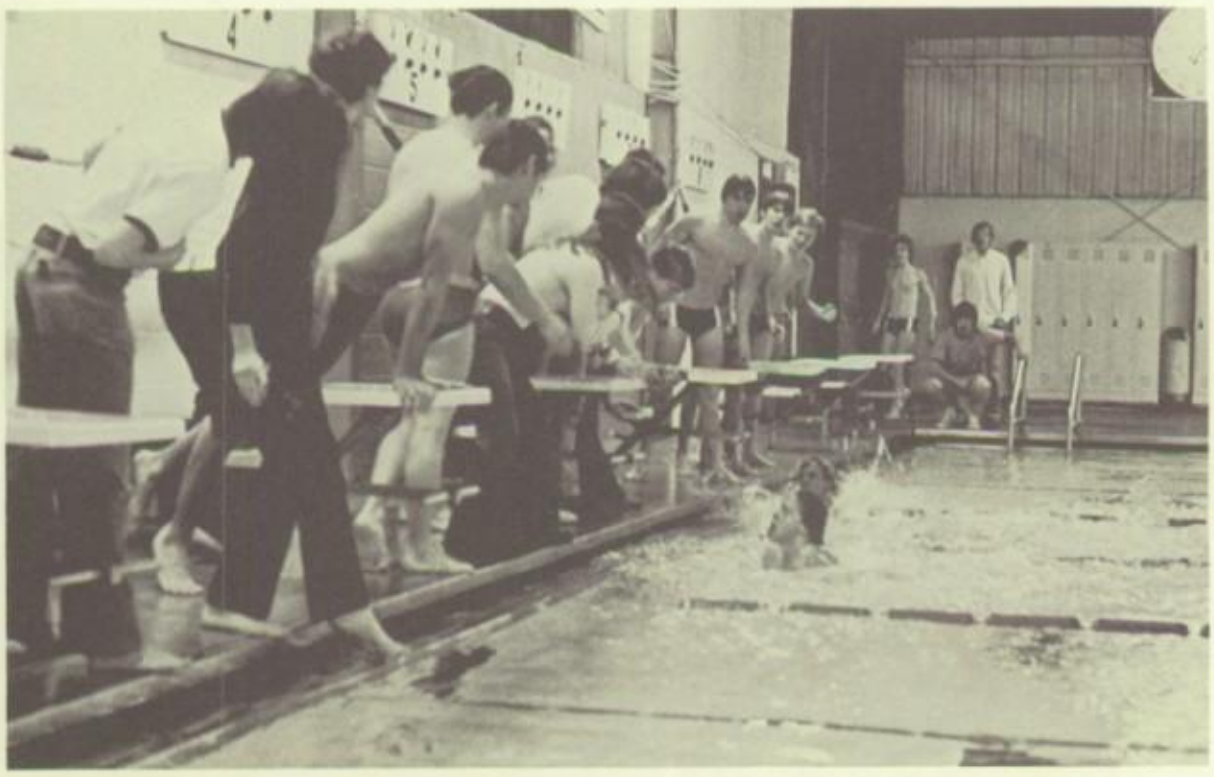
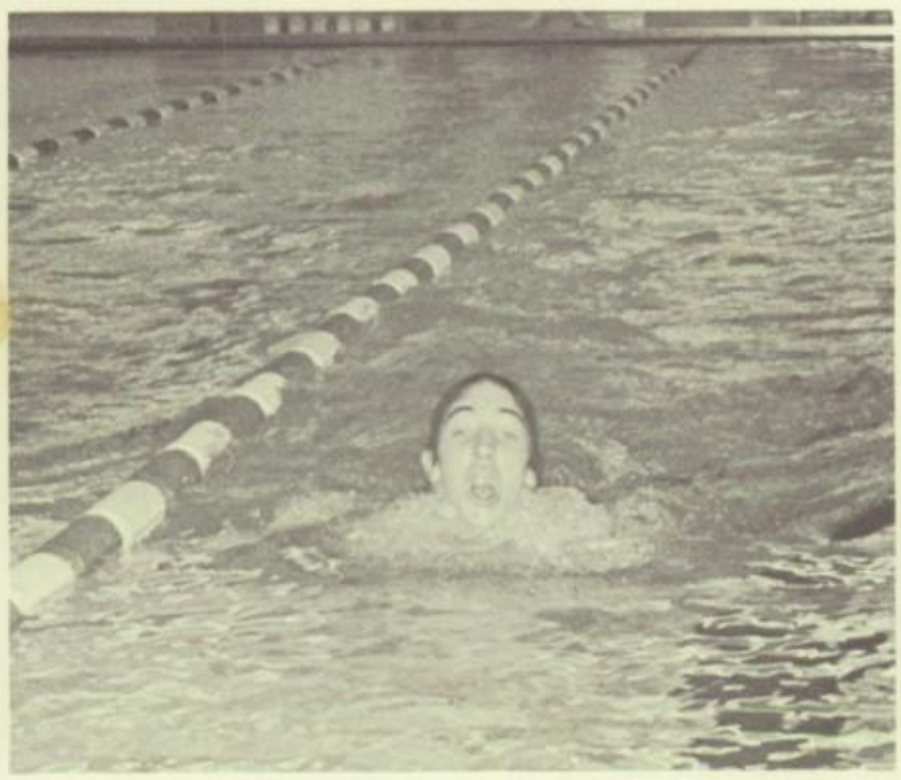
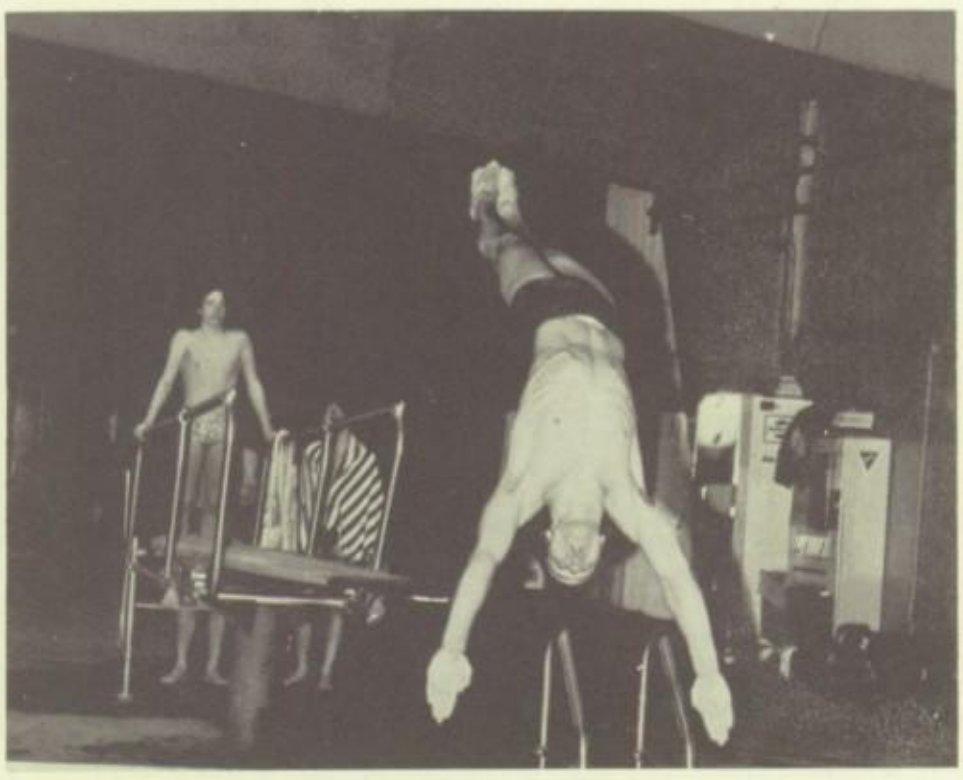
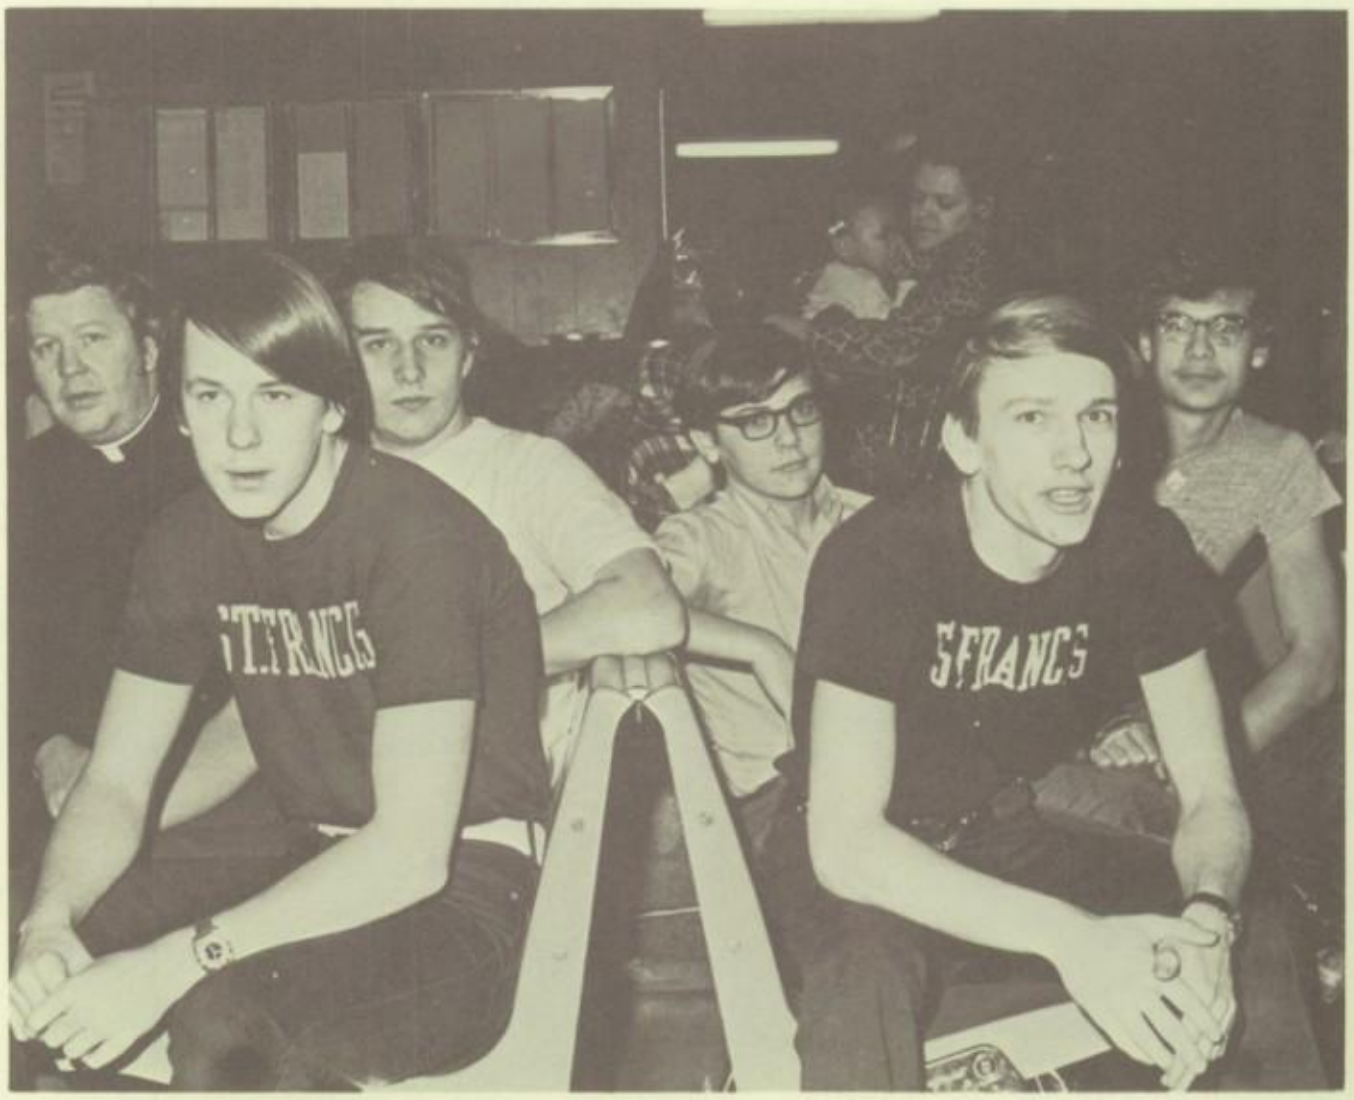
daybreak for swamp-knights



the swim team fought a difficult battle this year. competing against the best teams that this part of the country has to offer, our aquaknights had their abilities tested to the hilt. there were a few disappointments, but the aquaknights found consolation in their innumerable victories. through the hours of practice, and shrivelled up bodies, our swimmers were excellent examples of knight power.

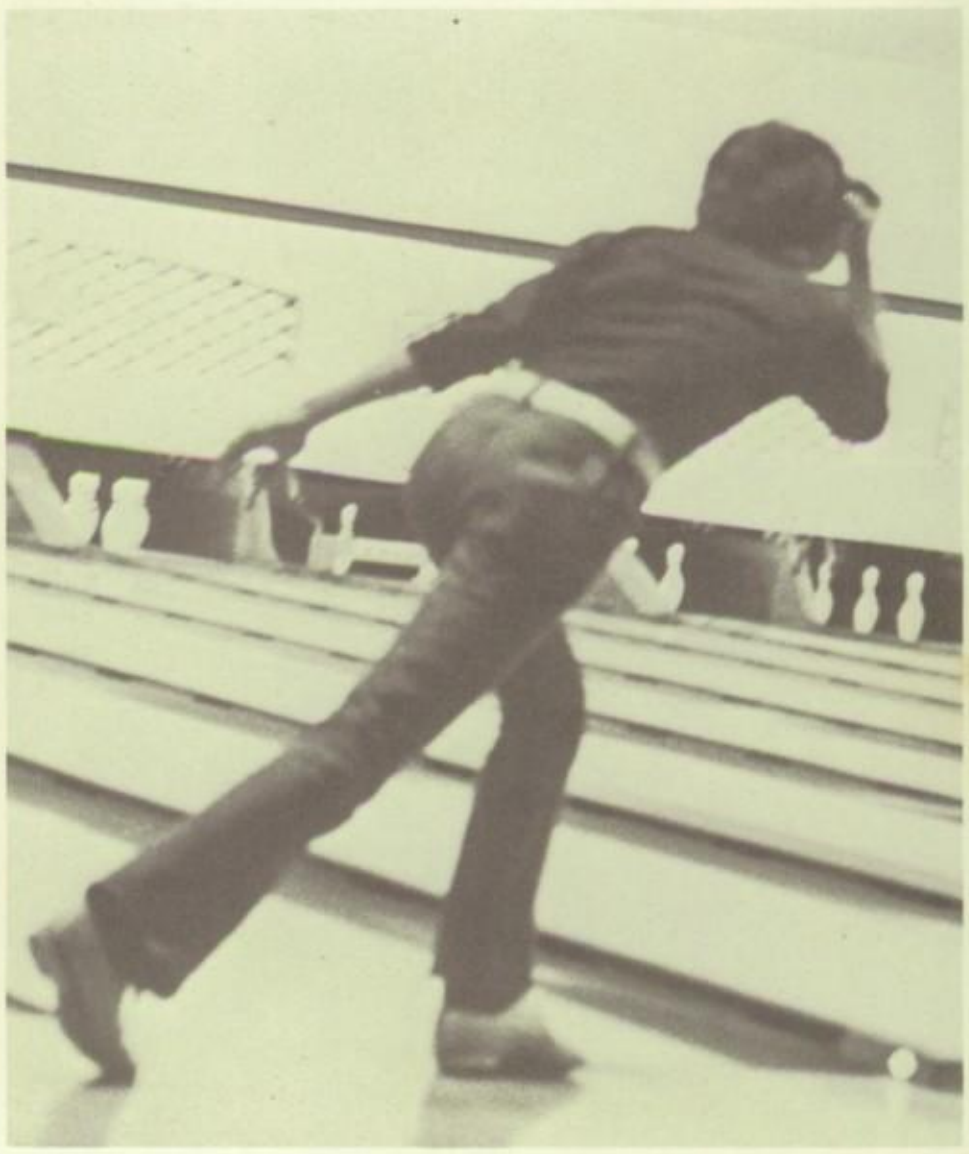


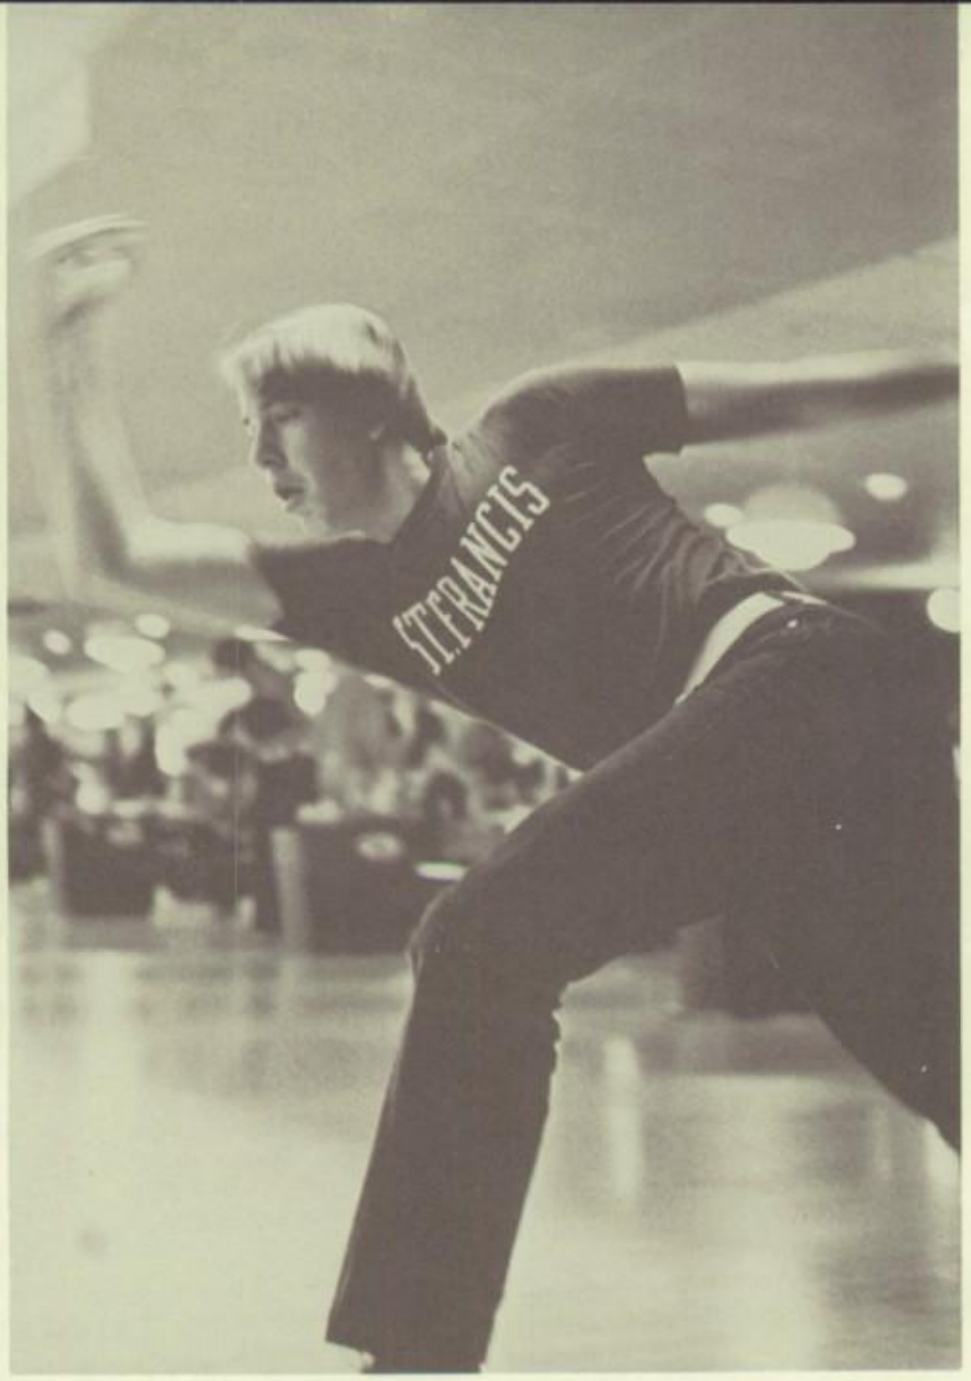


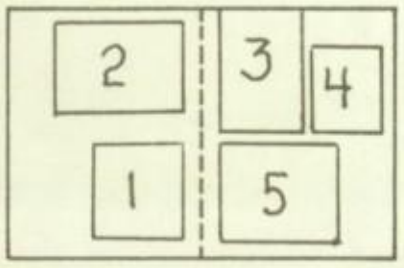


knights roll off

in the winter, basketball and wrestling captured the sports spotlight at st. francis, but the knights waged fierce battles on many other fields of sport. one of these forgotten sports was bowling. our keglers proceeded every saturday morning at 10:00 to defend the name of st. francis against most of the competitors around the city, most of the time without the support of the rest of the knights. they fought their battles not to the cheers of the supporting crowds, but to the self-determination which exemplifies the best in a knight of st. francis.







1. a knight bowler delivers another strike. 2. the varsity bowling team: fr. ed chrzanowski, mike kowalski, rick benson, dennis paszczykowski, steve kowalski, chuck schlembach. 3. mike kowalski releases with perfect form as the knights defeat another team. 4. chuck schlembach walks back after getting his strike. 5. the junior varsity bowling team: ron labreque, brian dick, denny wonser, dave barciz, mark kelley, fr. edward chrzanowski.

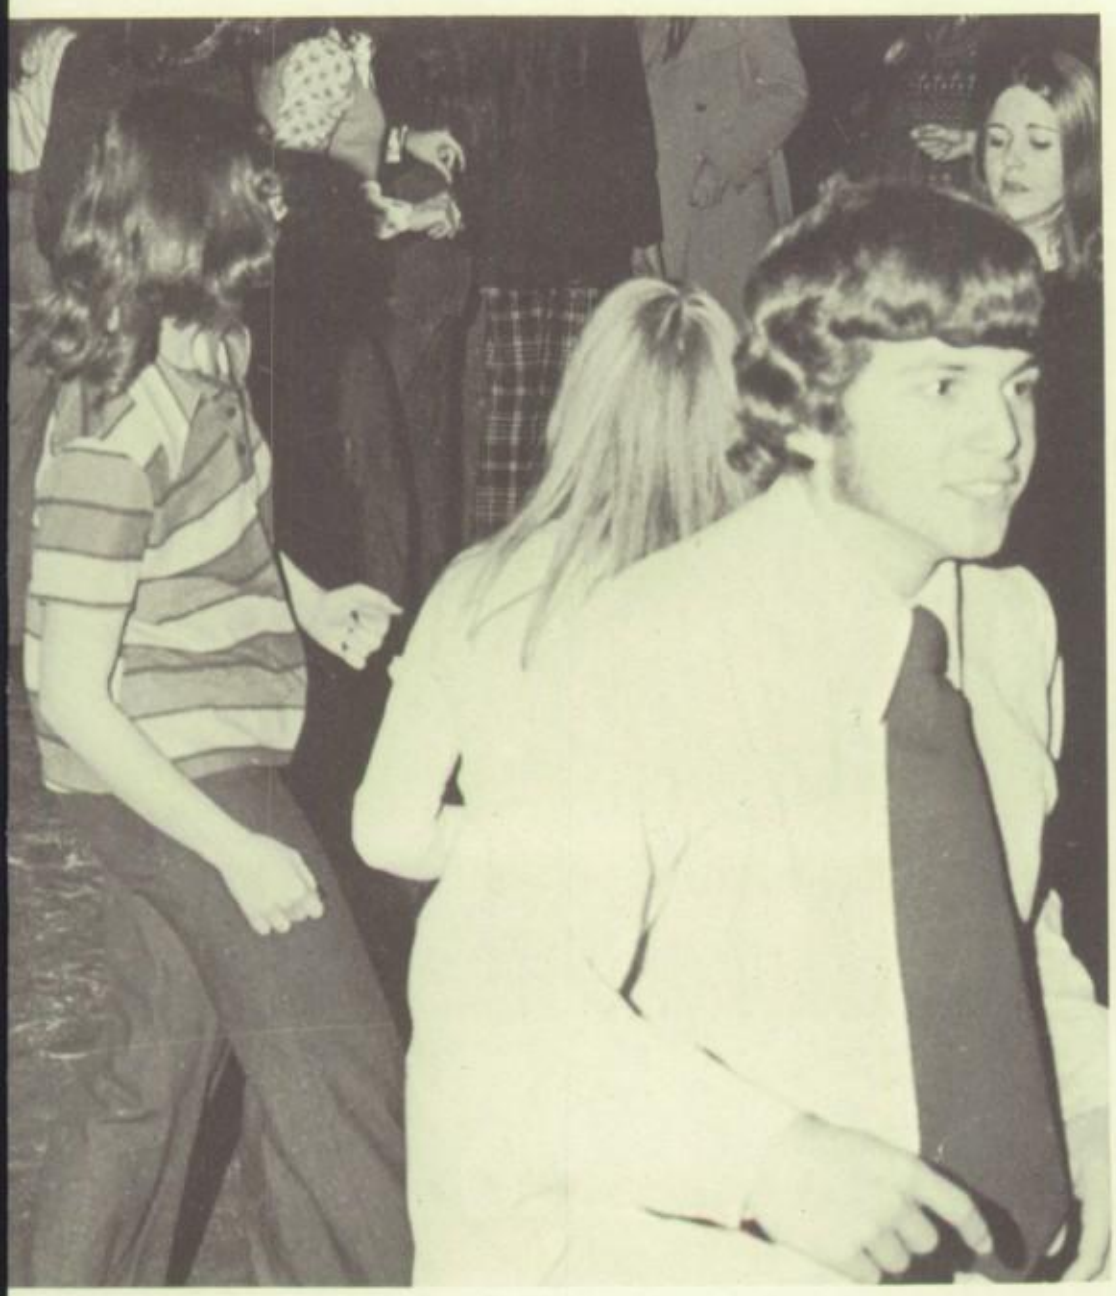
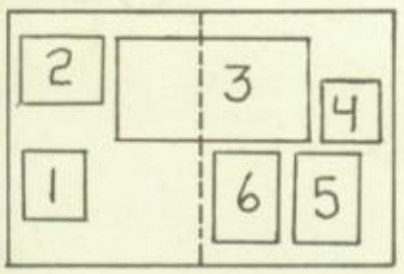
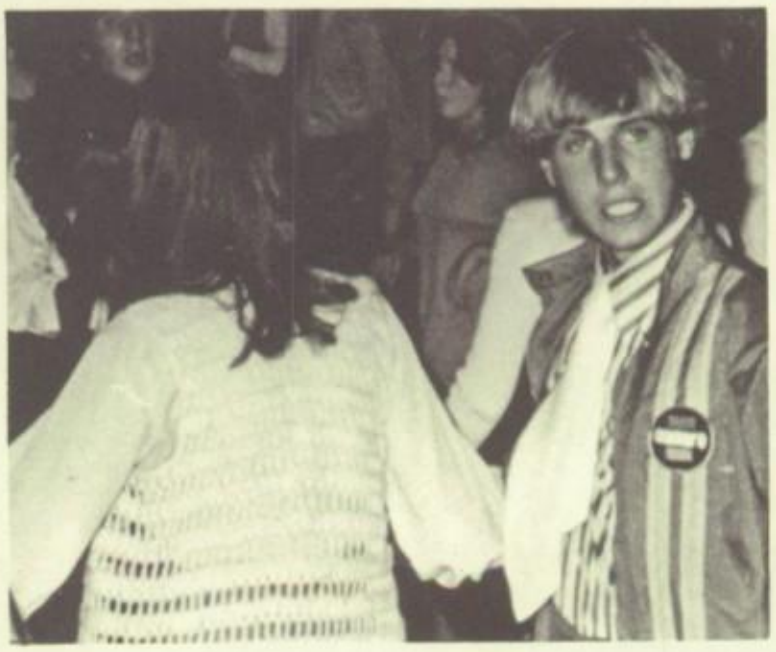
about once a month at st. francis the gym comes to life in the form of music and smiles. beginning promptly at 8:00, down go the lights, up goes the volume, and for three hours students unwind to the music of such premier groups as the corrupters 7, knife, beginnings, and spectra hailing from such far-away places as niagara falls and ann arbor. again this year, st. francis' dances have become famous for the fine musical talent, the loose atmosphere, the excellent organization, and the expert publicity.



1. when the music stops the dancers relax.
2. weary dancers relax in the midst of friends.
3. knights and damsels dance to the music.

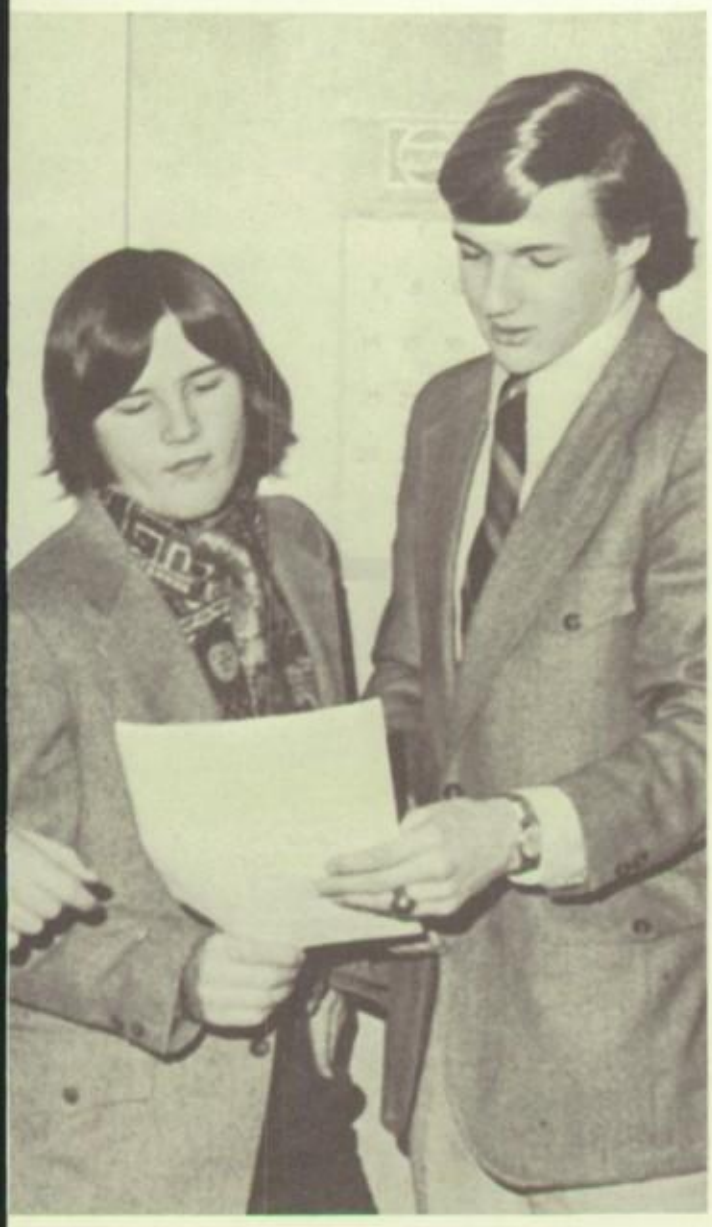


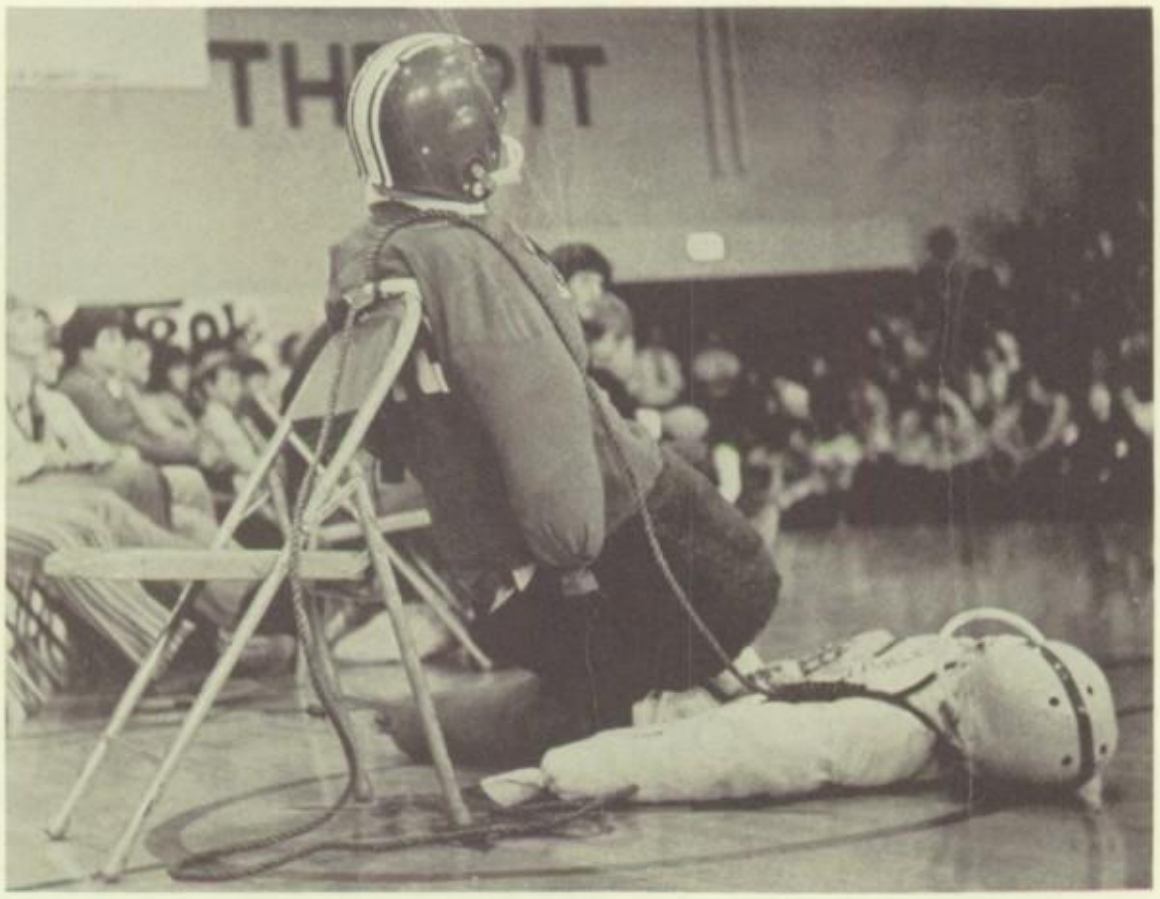
4. music inspires knights to dance. 5. musician, engrossed in his music, leads dancers rhythmic gyrations. 6. the cafeteria is a haven from the music and excitement of the gym

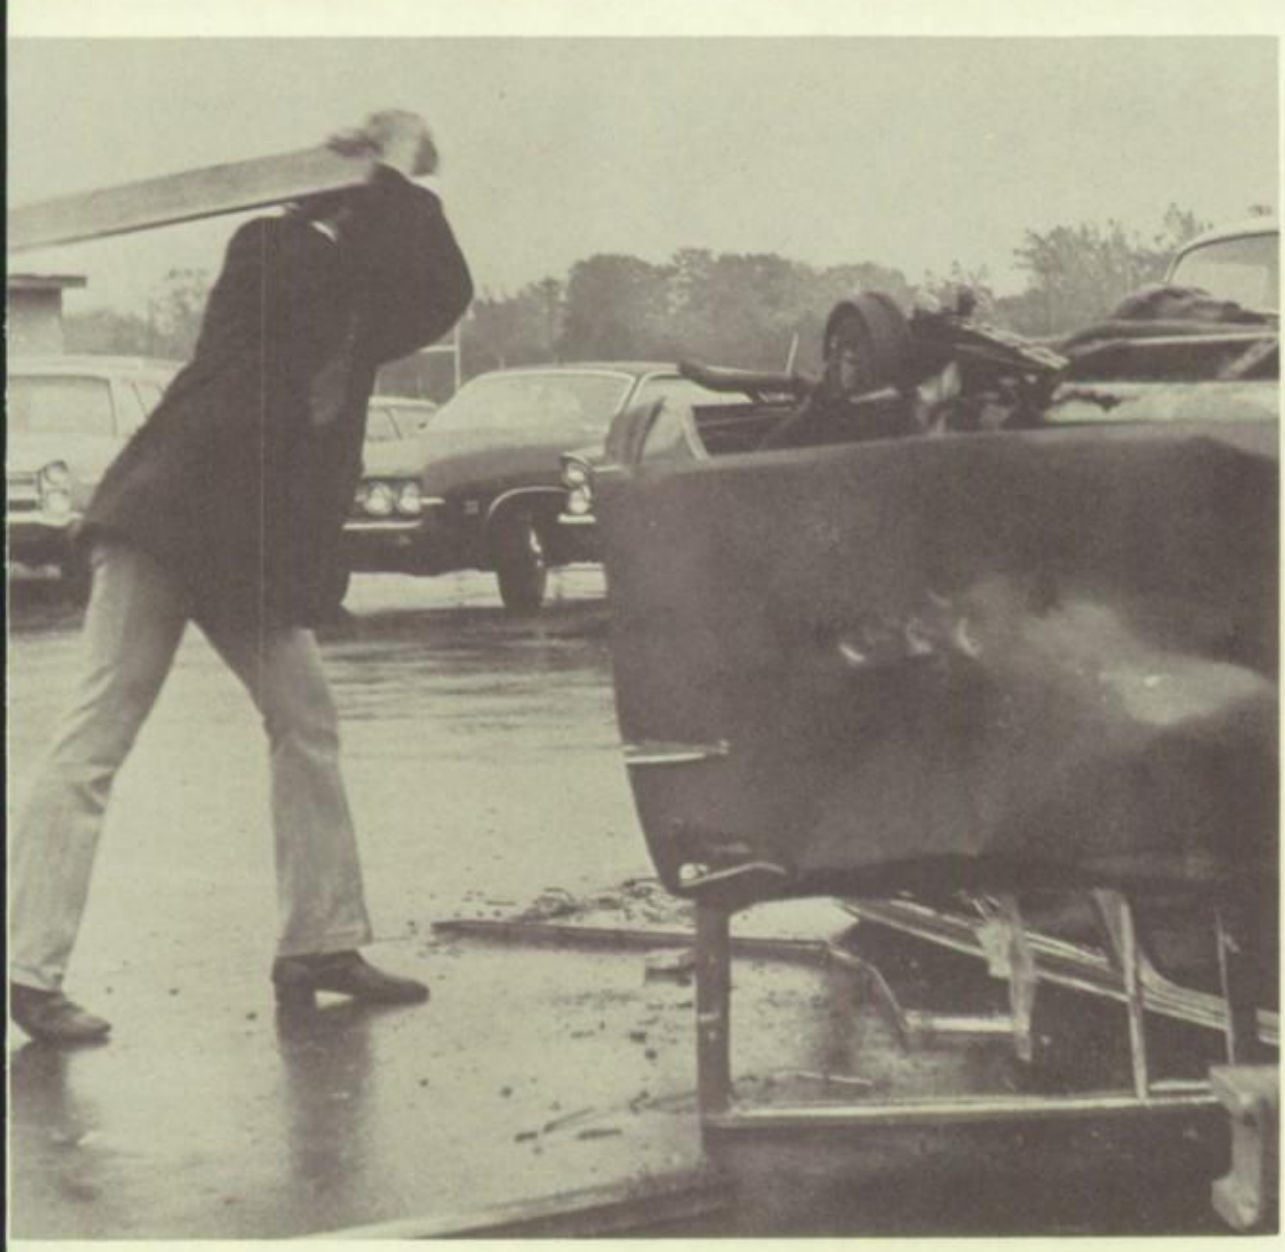


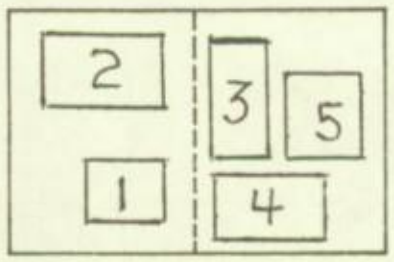
student council leads knights

student government? yes, there is such a representative body at st. francis known by the unusual name of student council. during the course of the year, under the leadership of president geoff zann and moderator fr. richard forti, sc has promoted many projects benefitting both the school and community. this congress of students worked side by side with the administration in formulating the new student code. in each and every facet of school life the student council has proven itself one of the most influential and beneficial organizations at st. francis.









1. scott pease coordinates s.c. rallies. 2. the student council officers: g. zann, president; d. younkman, vice-president; r. anderson, secretary; fr. r. forti, moderator; b. kenney, treasurer. 3. the pres. and the v.p. discuss with the secretary exactly what they said at the last meeting. 4. s.c. organizes fund raising activities such as car smashing. 5. the rallies and assemblies of the year are planned by the s.c.

1. knight icer moves in for shot. 2. the '73 hockey team. 3. knight icers clear puck outside blue line. 4. jess otto gets the puck out. 5. fast face-off foils fool-hardy foes.

knight icers freeze foes

even though the s.f.s. hockey team has had few practices, they managed to pull through the first half of the season formidably. by the middle of the season the knight icers found themselves among the top contenders in the eight team city league. led by captains jess otto and jeff mueller and goalie dan holland, they head into the second half of the season improving with each minute of ice time.

the intellectual battlefield the fields of competition on which the knights battled bravely were not limited to athletics alone. we were challenged also on the intellectual field in chess matches and in the quiz bowl. the pawnpushers met the best chess players in the city and showed them the true meaning of the word checkmate. the quiz bowlers met the knights' arch enemy, central, and the final question dealt a crushing blow to the hopes for a city championship.

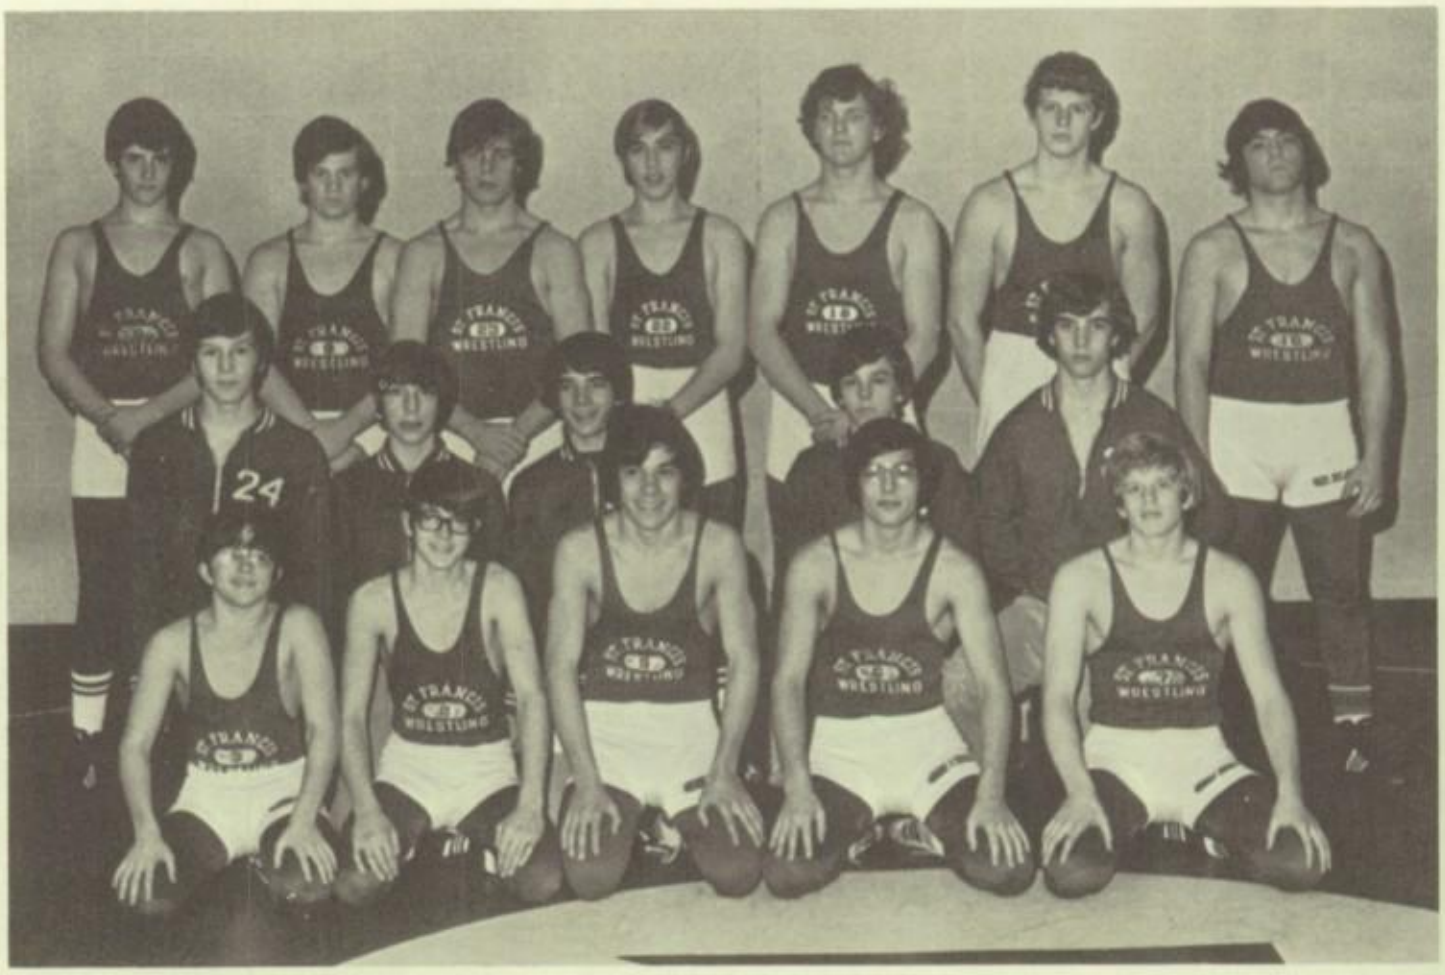
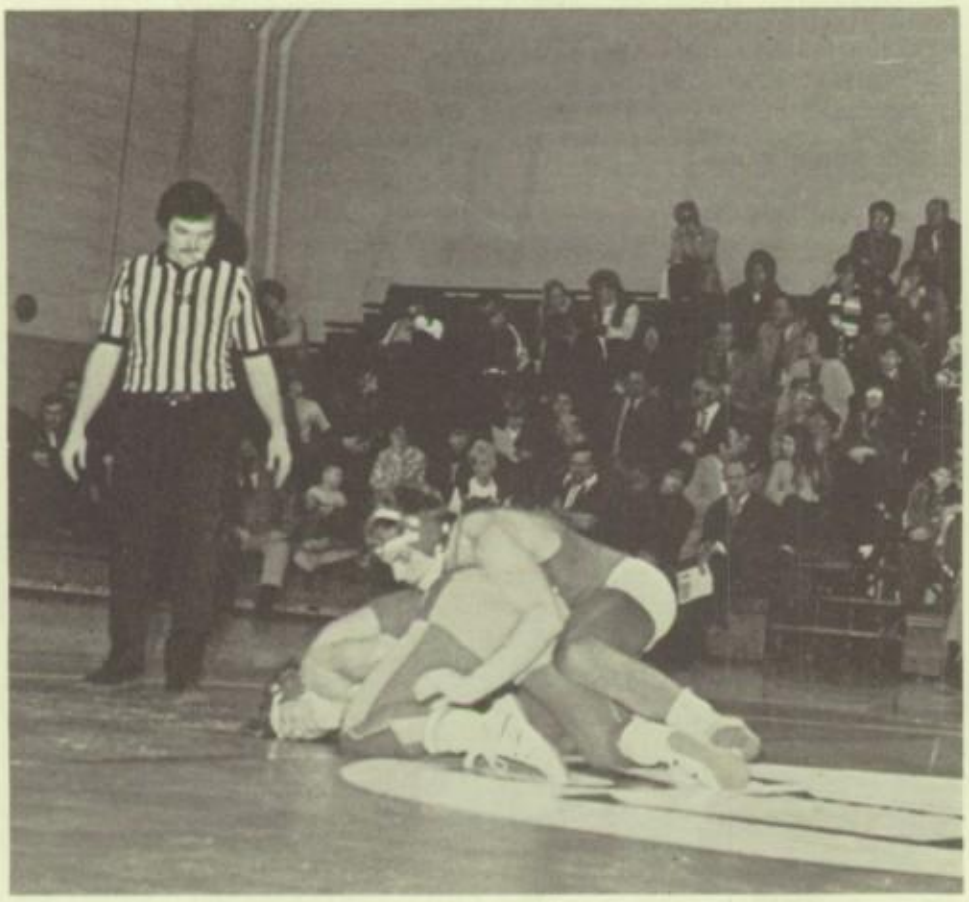
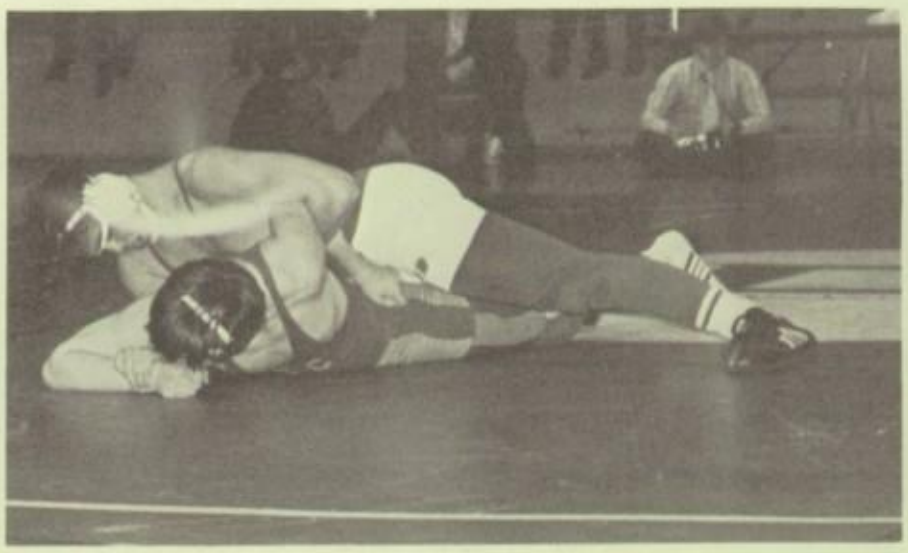
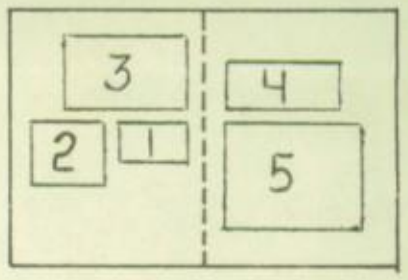
last year's lance might have been called good, but this year we had one of the best publications st. francis has seen for a long time. this is mostly due to the efforts of the staff. the editor, mike matuszewski and his assistant, jack mossburg spent many an hour trying to come up with good ideas for their readers' benefit. the staff of excellent writers and page editors are credited for putting these ideas down in quality stories. you could tell when you picked up a copy that browsing through it would be an experience you would never forget.





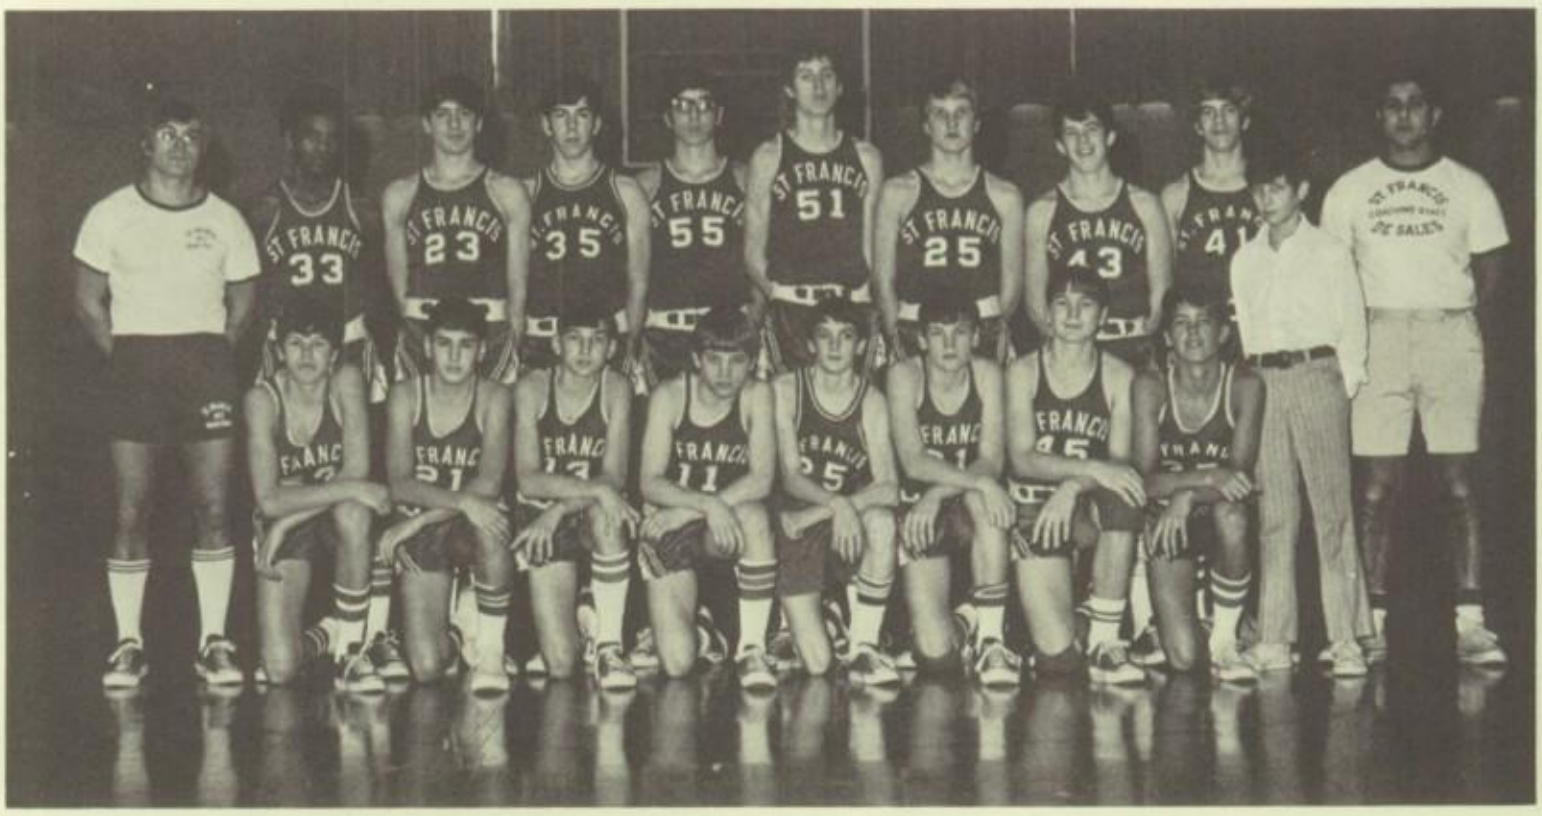


1. mark pasquinelly gives it his all. 2. knight attempts to floor opposition. 3. j.v. wrestling team. 4. j.v. basketbal team. 5. ed clemons outjumps start basketball center.



j.v.'s, pride of 75

the pride of seventy five was very successful overall in both basketball and wrestling. under new coach, jon wozniak, the roundballers have produced some varsity prospects for next year. the grapplers under coach mike mcdermott, though losing a few bright prospects to the varsity, have kept the tradition of fine wrestling alive at sfs.



1. frosh b-ballers show how to control tap. 2. young guard exhibits fine ball handling. 3. the freshmen basketball team. 4. the freshmen swimming team. 5. frosh grapplers put new blood into an old sport. 6. the freshmen wrestling team.

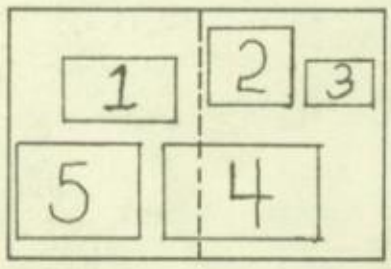
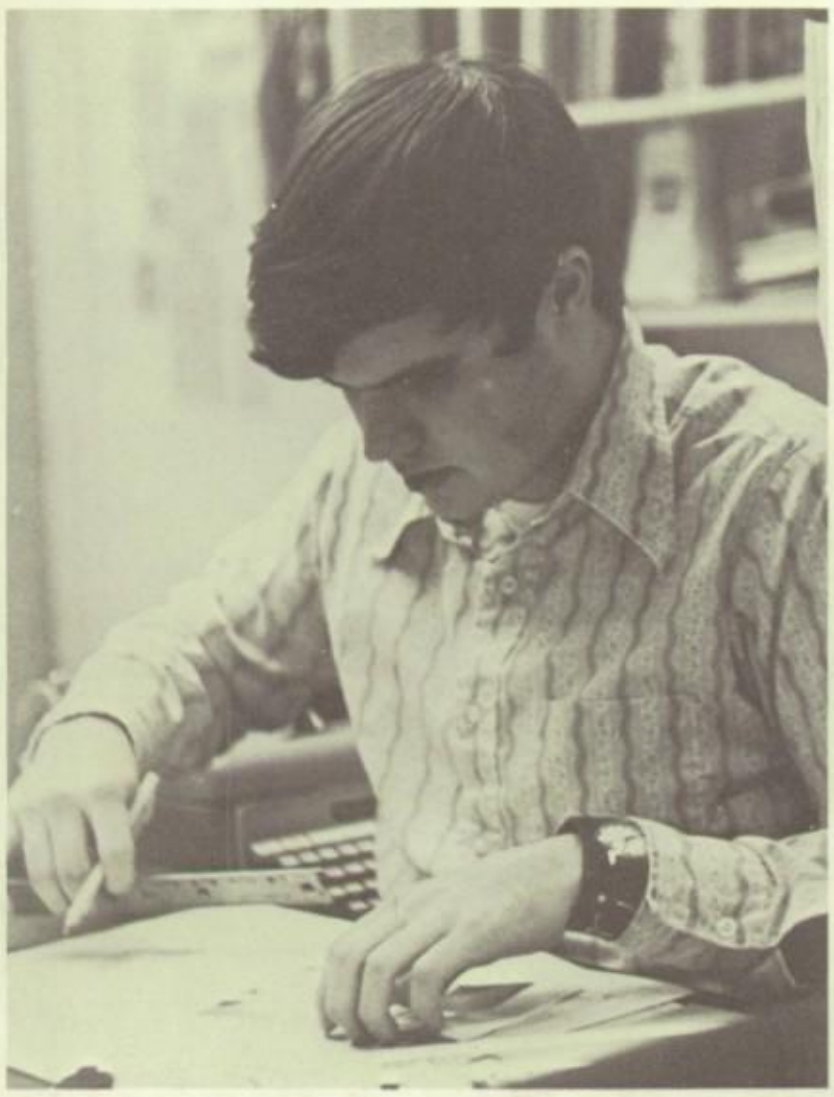
the revitalizing force of st. francis, its freshmen, have had a marked influence on the future here this year. in all endeavors, the frosh have made great efforts to live up to the tradition of our alma mater. the swimmers finned their way to one of the best seasons ever. under the careful and watchful eye of coach mcdermott, the grapplers' season was most fruitful. for the b-ballers, it was a year of change and new ideas; a new coach, mr. kober, and the added attraction of side-line fans, cheerleaders.



1. the 1973 accolade staff. 2. editor harry meyers cropps pictures as the deadline nears. 3. asst. editor tom mouch checks the page to insure perfection. 4. education and preparation pay off as the pages mystically take shape. 5. advisor alfred t. moran and photo editor tony slawinski censor the pictures to insure that the book is in good taste.



year becomes history in accolade

the writers of the accolade have the grave responsibility of presenting and preserving for all time the traditions, institutions, and spirit of st. francis. all the events, thoughts, and emotions of the year must be unified into one small chapter of the great cumulative history of our school. staff members are constantly at work taking pictures, writing copy, drawing layouts, and doing other tasks, less glamorous, but just as important. the long hours of toil and trouble are rewarded by the compliments of fellow knights when the books are finally delivered.

an often overlooked but vitally important part of st. francis are those fine ladies who keep the school running smoothly. the ladies in the office are representatives this school can be proud of. our nurse always offers a sympathetic ear to the stories of woe of the students. our librarian maintains the library, keeping it ever ready for the inquisitive minds of the students. the ladies of the kitchen offer up interesting delicacies for the gastronomic delight of all the knights. hail to thee, unsung heroes.

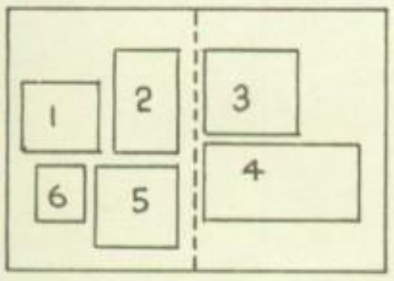
this year our religion department, headed by fr. jim doll, is trying different approaches, including senior-st. ursula monday night religion class and the freshman volunteer services program. the department is augmented by new faces — fr. dave whelan and fr. gil heiman. the old standbys of the department are fr. fern brennan and fr. richard froti. with the aid of these men we are directed through normal, modern life to our final goal.



1. students are involved in fr. whalen's ethics class. 2. does fr. doll have control of the sophs? 3. fr. forti seems to enjoy envolvement with seniors. 4. who said that religious people can not be sociable. 5. fr. brennen talks about poignant teenage problems. 6. humorous essays on today's morality keep fr. heiman up.

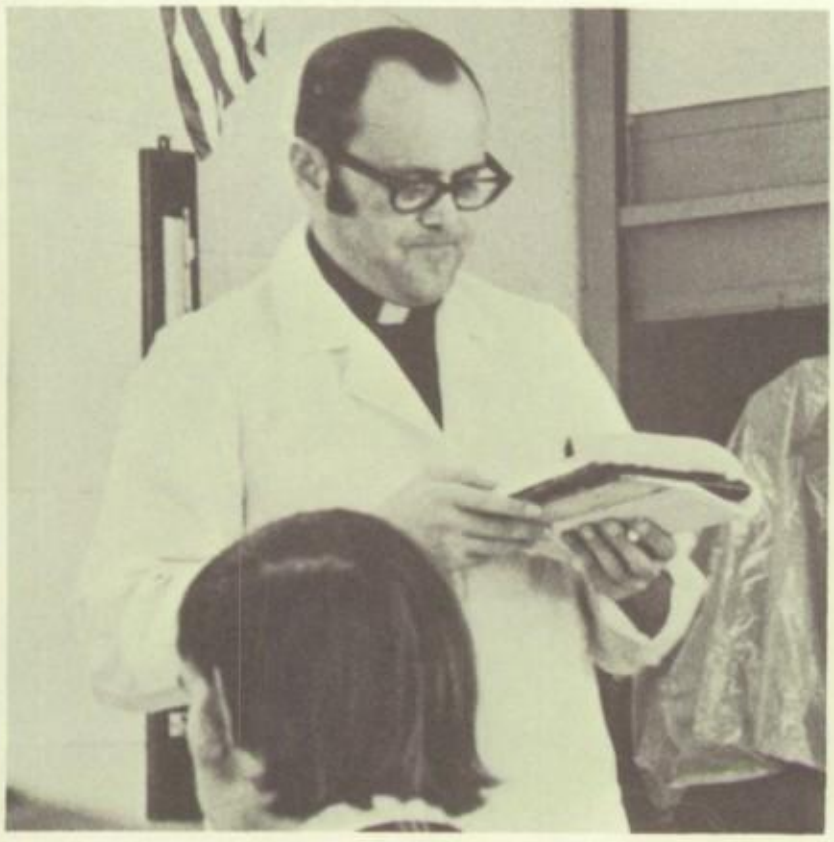
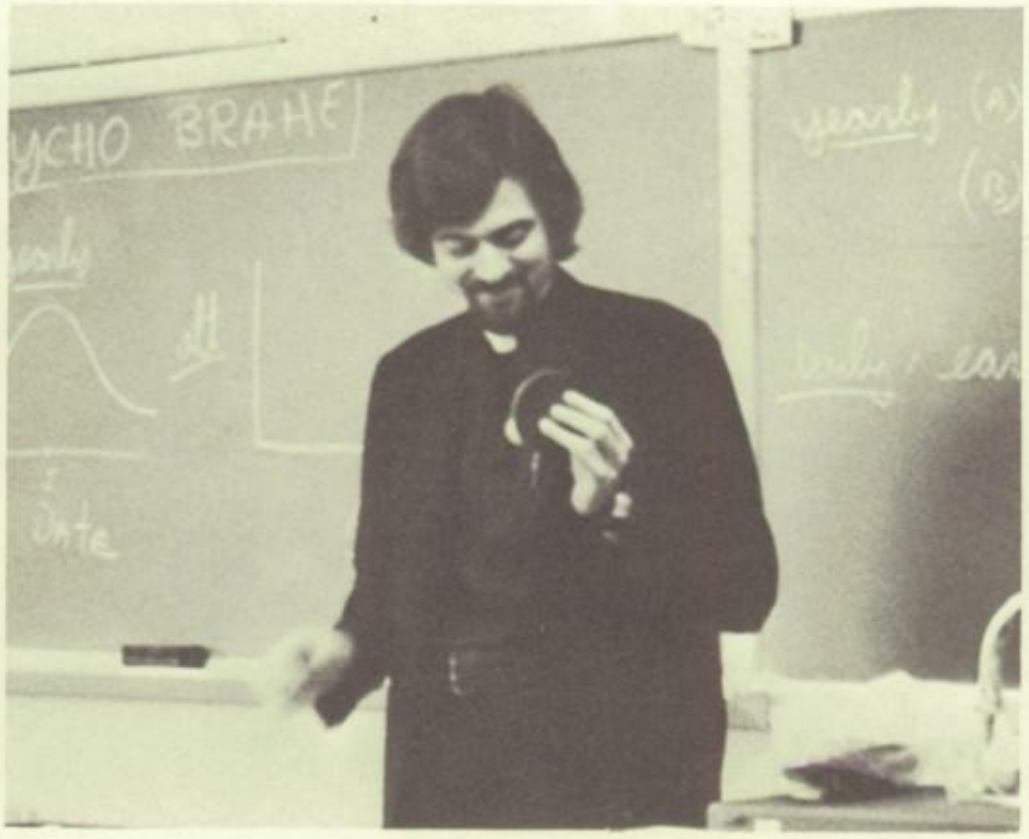
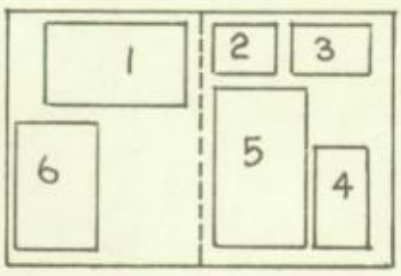
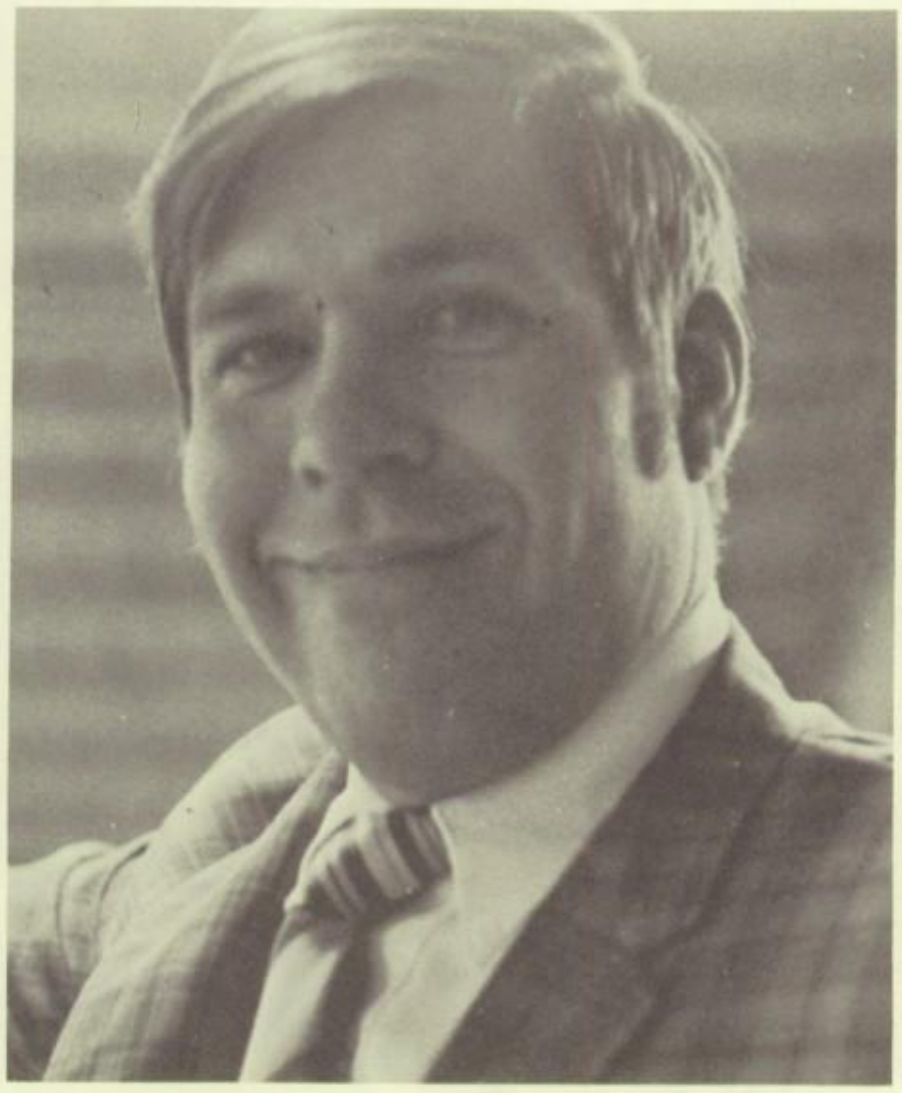
why does it happen? the st. francis science department, headed by fr. ebenhoeh, attempts to help students discover the answer to this question. beginning with physical science, freshmen are given a taste of all branches of science. from then on, however, specialization is the goal. biology and chemistry in sophomore and junior years, followed by one of two in-depth physics courses in senior year give the student a wide range of scientific knowledge. advanced biology and chemistry are offered to students seriously considering a science major in college.

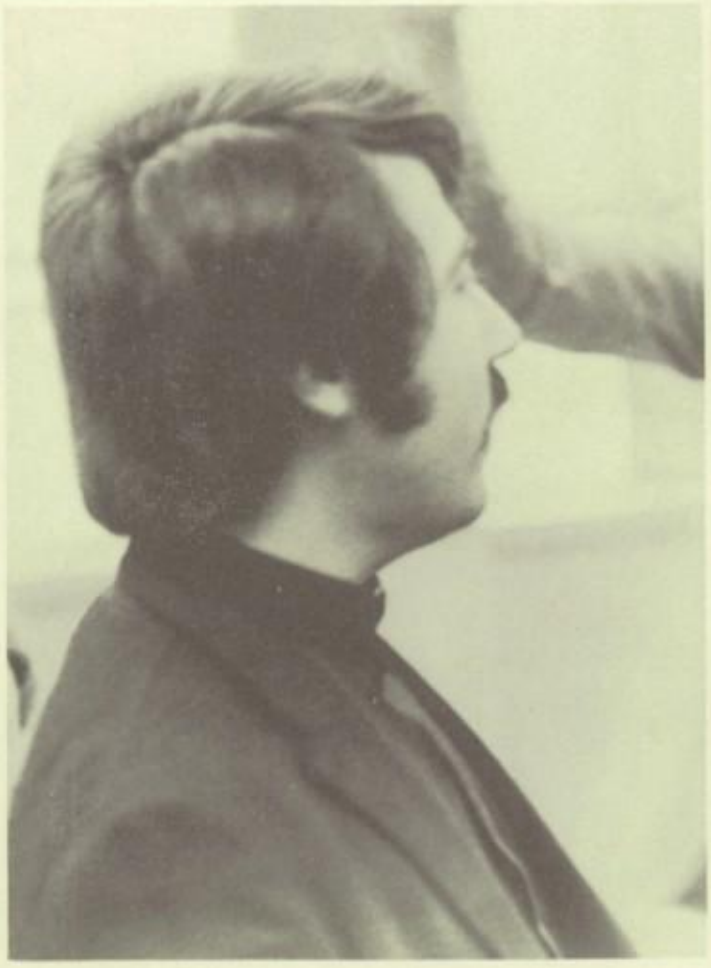






1. fr. mclernan concedes point to physics class. 2. fr. ebenhoeh reviews data. 3. fr. gussenbauer finds experimentation fun. 4. mr. graves teaches biology to sophomores. 5. biology instructor larry jankowski is a new face at st. francis this year. 6. mr. sevenich listens to frosh report.





1. students obtain culture from fr. forti. 2. bro. eberle's enthusiasm is contagious. 3. fr. sottek takes the strike. 4. fr. whalen emphasises the point. 5. predicted error in fr. baraniewicz's class. 6. fr. diekman injects a bit of humor. 7. ms. stein concentrates intently.

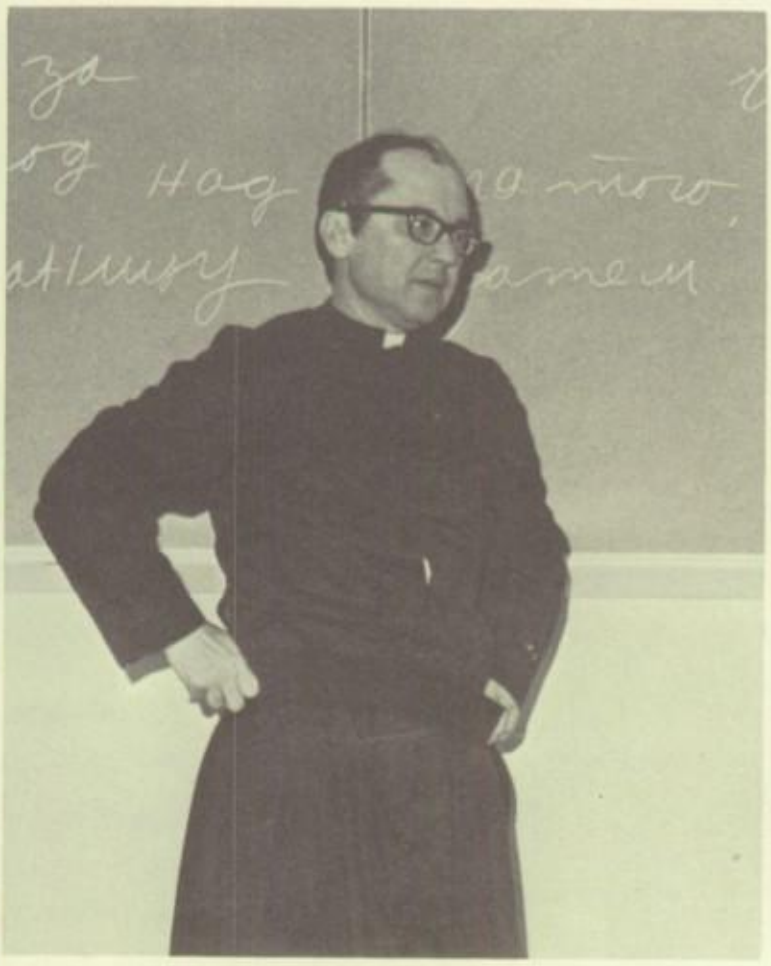
language comprises a great amount of attention and work in the life of the average st. francis knight. there is a wide range to choose from, beginning with the basics of latin i to the advanced courses of french and german with a sprinkling of russian in between. the language department labors under the old axiom that everyone should be bilingual, be it from polish to australian aboriginese. studies flow from the basic elements of speaking and reading french and german to the analysis of herman hesse in german, charles baudelaire in french and caesar's gallic wars and cicero's orations in latin. the loss of such courses would leave an unfillable void in the personality and character of each student here at st. francis.



a sound basis in math is essential in the college situation. therefore at st. francis, mathematics is an integral part of every student's curriculum. freshmen are introduced to the mysteries of why $(a + b)^2$ is not $a^2 + b^2$ in algebra i, traditionally taught by fr. cutter. in algebra ii, sophomores pursue further how to make alphabet soup and discover the wonderful trigonometric functions. juniors are encouraged to think logically while developing proofs in geometry. seniors have an option of either studying functions in mathematical analysis or exploring the possibilities of division by zero in calculus.

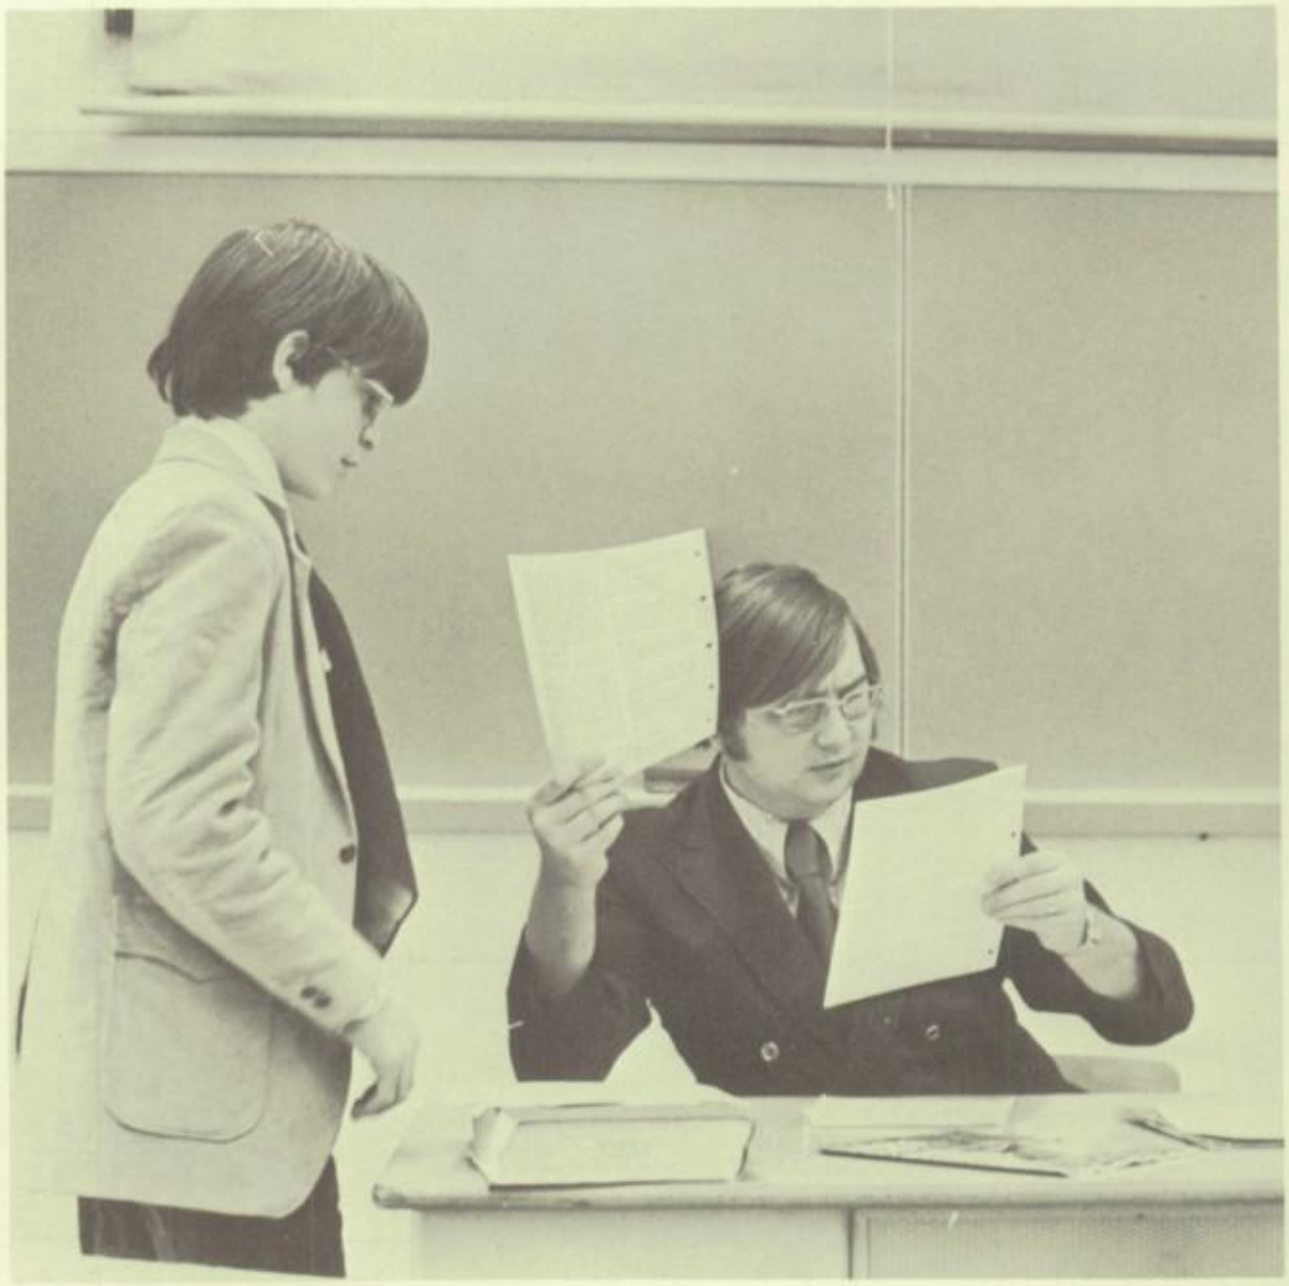
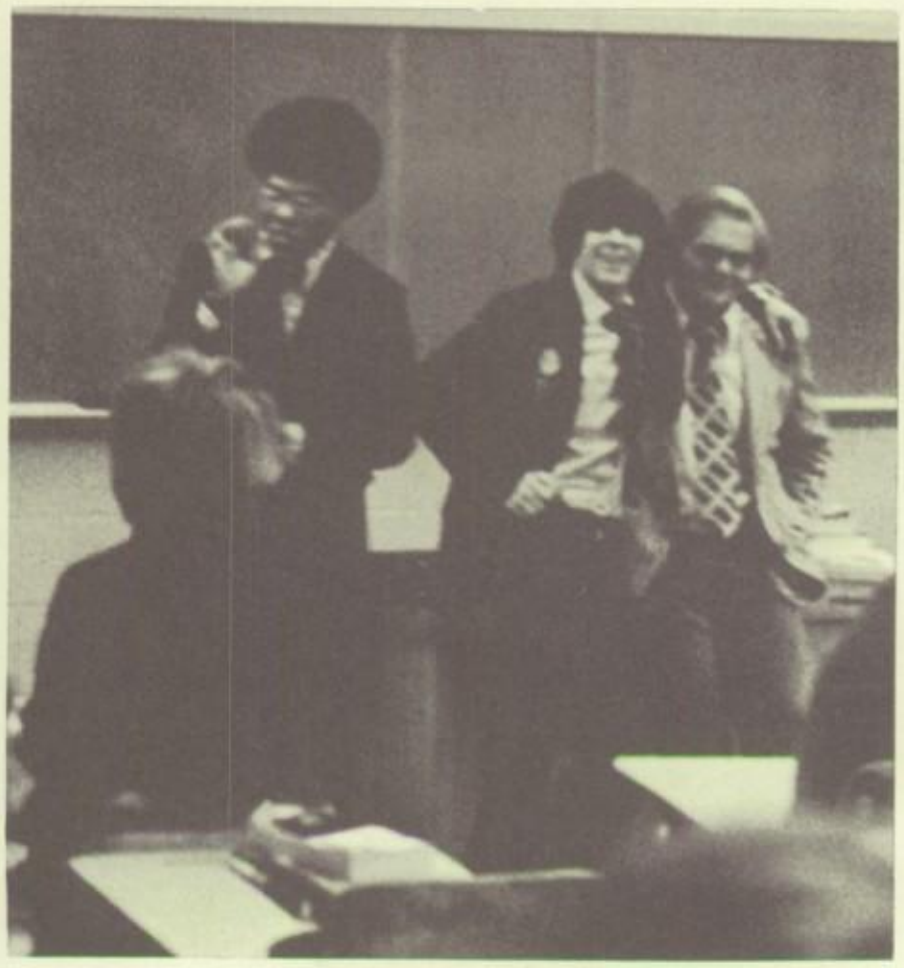
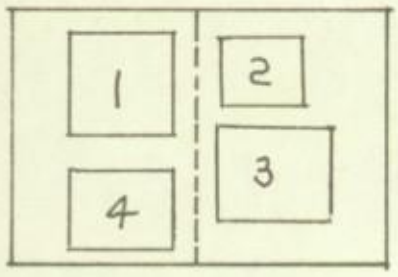
1. fr. ankenbrandt ponders as students await decision. 2. ms. billmaier emphasizes point in advanced algebra. 3. mr. moran leans on calculus problem. 4. mr. berton helps frosh learn to count. 5. mr. billmaier engages in frivolity with algebra ii class. 6. fr. cutter searches briefcase for key to test.

when, in the course of sfs events, it becomes apparent that the bonds of education become so weak, that it is evident that to break those bonds and take a history course would be a better choice. whether allied to world or us history, it is evident that poli sci and economics are to follow. to establish new bonds, there is only one mode of action left, research topics. who knows what path this new relationship may take, but it is in the great footsteps of father koelzer.



who says history is dead





1. woz ponders a freshman's problem. 2. mr. mc dermott fraternizes with his students. 3. father koelzer smiles sardonically. 4. mr. kober enjoys a good time with his class.

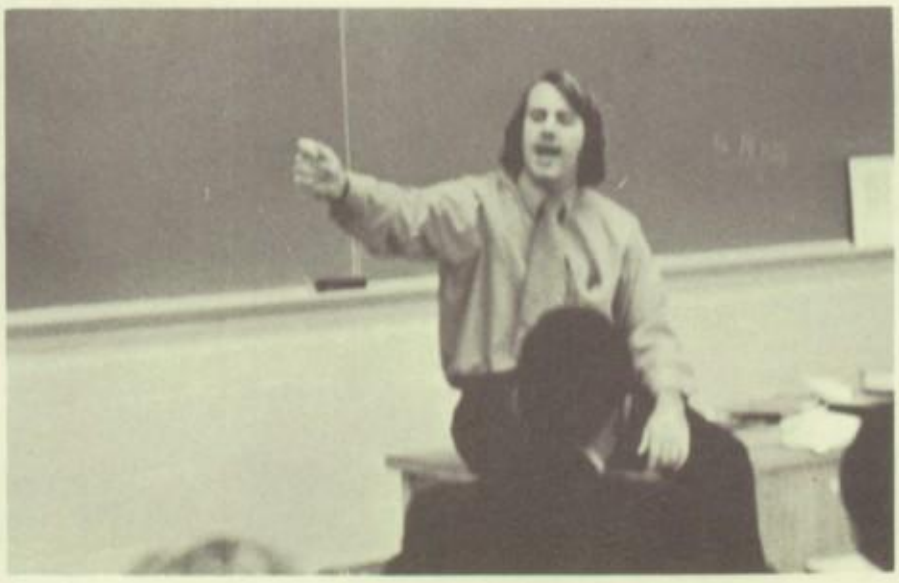
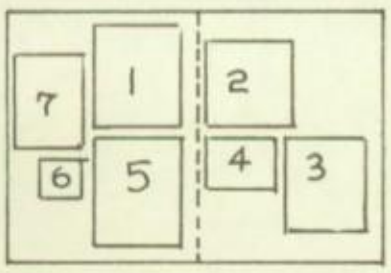
the english department spends countless hours striving to instill in its students a greater knowledge of their native language. studies range from the basic sentence to the great novels of american and english literature. the students experience the feeling of the great authors of our time in their attempts at creative writing. the teachers try to move the students as they expose them to the works of hawthorne, hemmingway, steinbeck and vonnegut. drama is brought into play as the works of shakespeare, shaw, and o'neill are researched. through all this the teachers still find the time to delve into the musical lyrics of the poems, and explain the mechanics of the term paper. all this is tied together in logical order through the efforts of the english department.





1. fr. chrzanowski reads twain's comments on "cooper indians". 2. mr. stucker emphasizes his point. 3. dammit all, gentlemen! 4. in english class mr. geraghty talks about hockey . . . 5. fr. mcmenamin takes the analytic approach. 6. mr. a, jack-of-all-trades. 7. fr. prentice purveys a perchance.

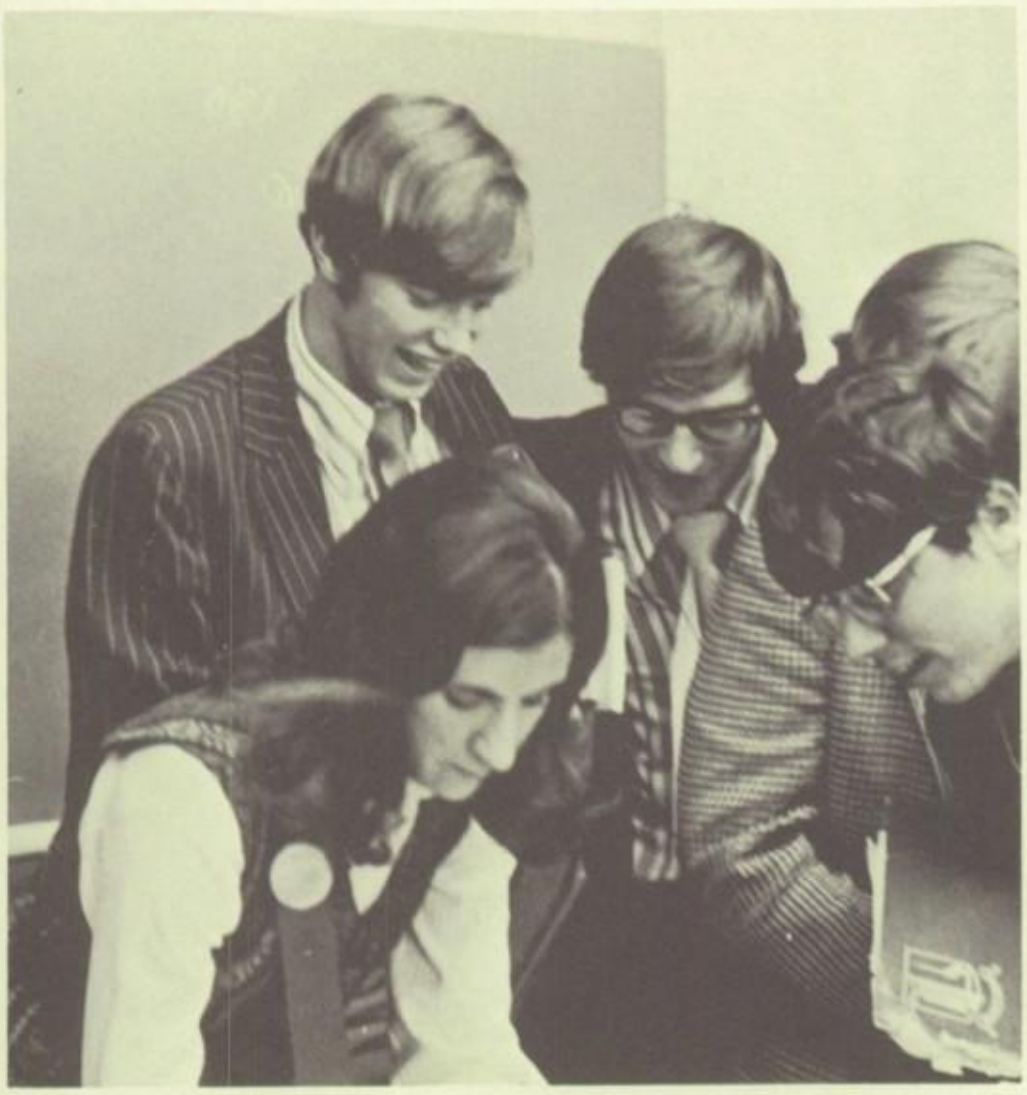
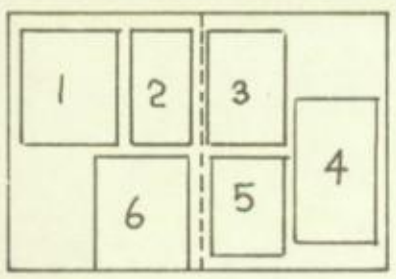
adv. courses bring second thoughts spearheading the attempt to prepare st. francis students for college are six advanced placement courses offered to outstanding juniors and seniors. in advanced english, fr. fisher introduces ambitious students to the wide world of literature. seniors learn the intricacies of calculus from mr. moran. in french and german iv, accomplished linguists learn to use grammatical constructions in translating famous writers. full use of laboratory facilities is made possible for future scientists in both advanced biology and advanced chemistry, with guidance from mr. jankowski and fr. ebenhoeh.





1. the rev. john ebenhoeh osfs. 2. mr. jurgen mudrow. 3. mr. jankowski assists don pellioni in operation of the auto-clave. 4. father fisher questions a student's excuse. 5. ms. stein shows students a french magazine. 6. mr. moran illustrates a calculus problem.

1. mr. palmer instructs students in the fine arts. 3. father russell rushes his typing class. 4. mr. graves teaches the fish. 5. mr. mattingly counsels his squires. 6. mr. geraghty joins in with his class. 7. bro. al instructs freshmen in proper ways of health. 8. mr. kubacki presides over his gym class.

experienced instructors offer st. francis students interesting electives and non-academic courses. typing, taught by fr. russell and mr. geraghty, is a must for the college and term-paper bound student. mechanical drawing, squared away by "coach" mattingly, provides vocational training for the future engineer. health, a state requirement, is taught by bro. al to freshmen. the creativity of the individual is emphasized in mr. palmer's art class. physical training is provided both in the form of swimming by coach graves, and in physical education under the watchful eye of mr. kubacki.

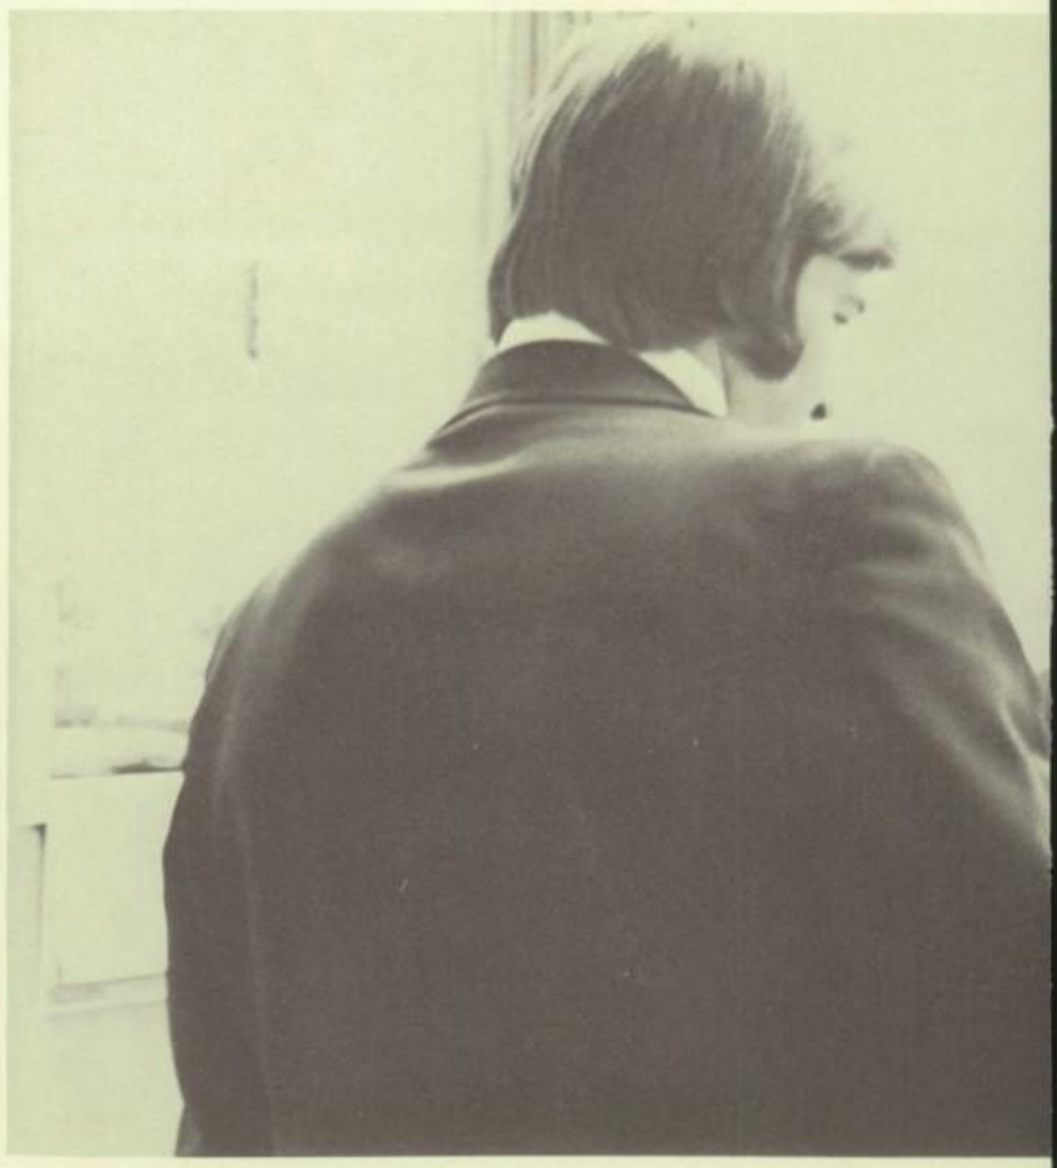
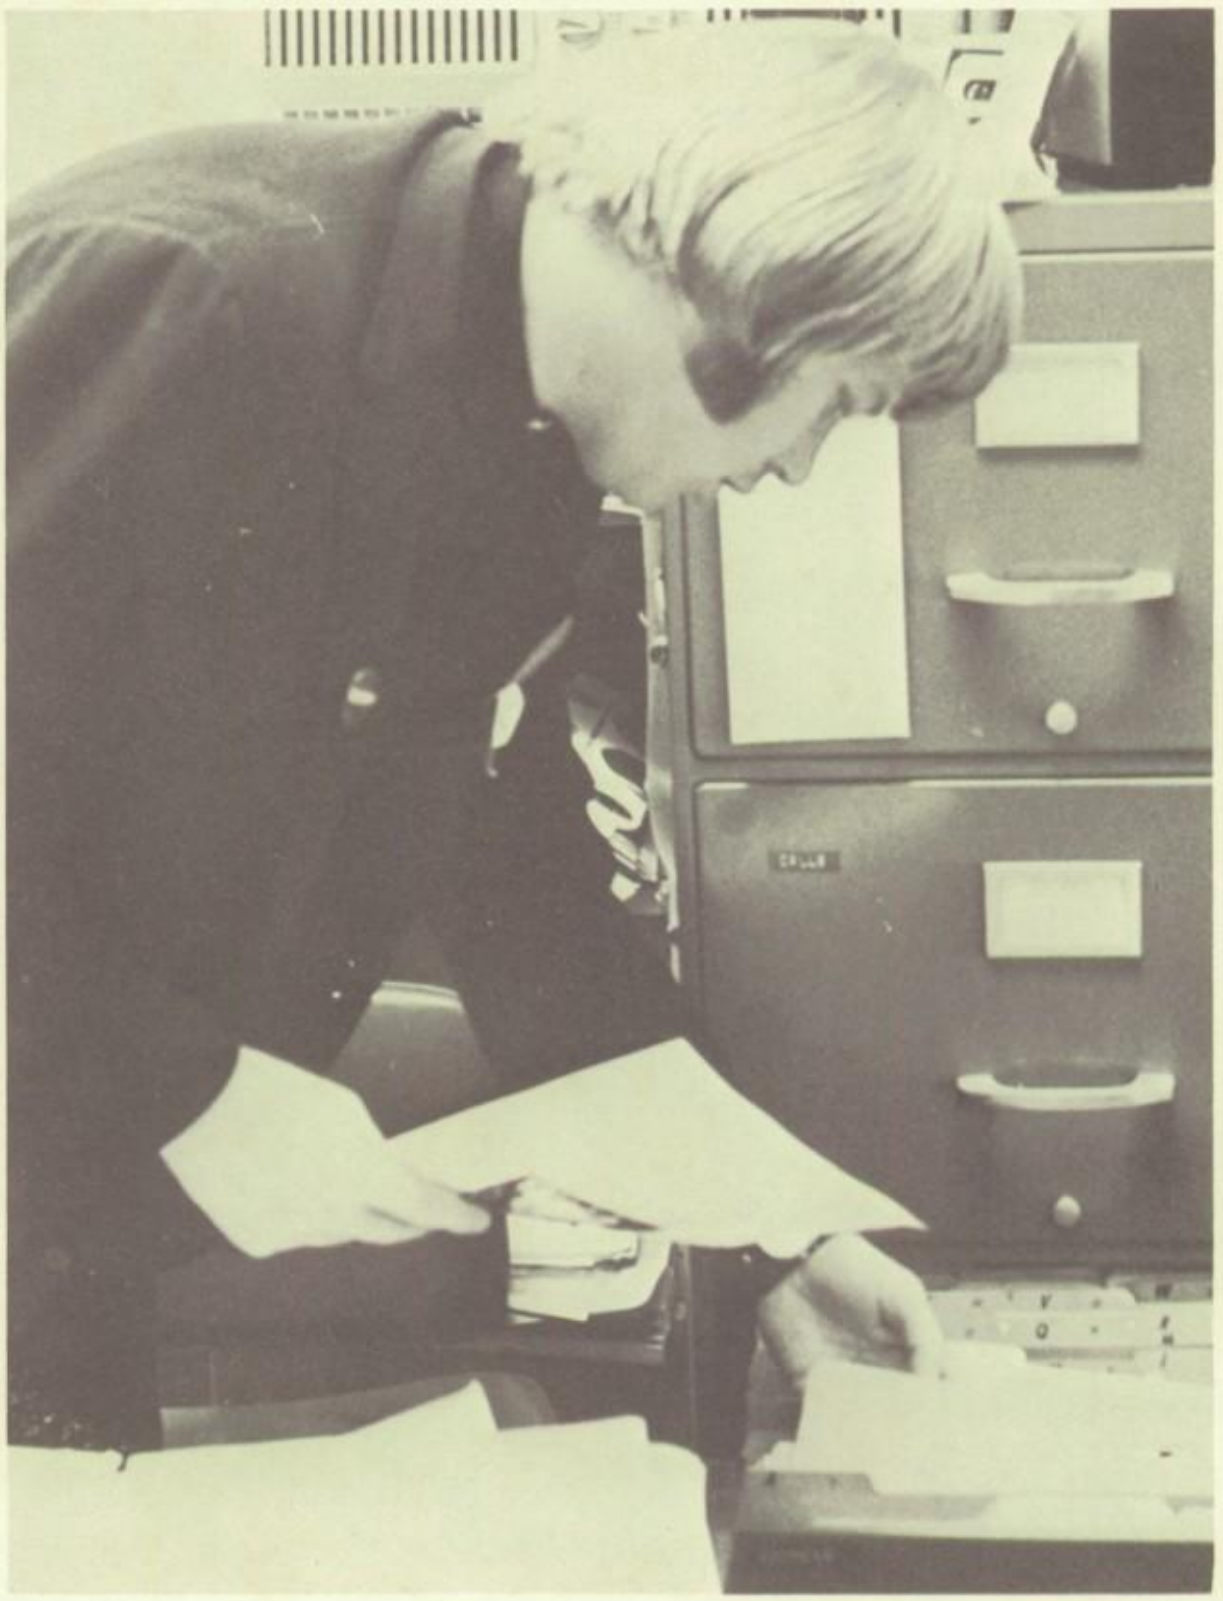
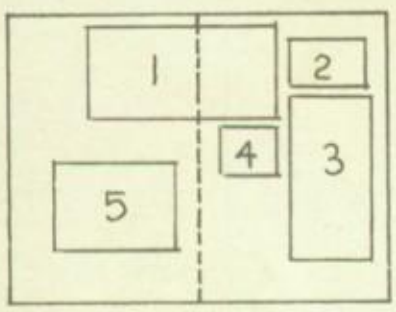
this year our guidance department has a new face and old experience. fr. gil heiman is the new face with new ideas, filling the void left by fr. jj mcmenamin, currently handling scholarships. another division of the guidance department is the operations of the big brother system, where twelve outstanding seniors are chosen to help the frosh through their first weeks at sfs. the department is completed by mr. don wyper who handles testing and interpretation.



guidance expands





1. guidance staff reviews college applications. 2. fr. mcmenamin fills out financial aid requests. 3. fr. gil heiman puzzles over fr. mcmenamin's filing system. 4. dandy don relaxes with college representative. 5. along with staff, big brothers guide freshmen.

underclassmen 96

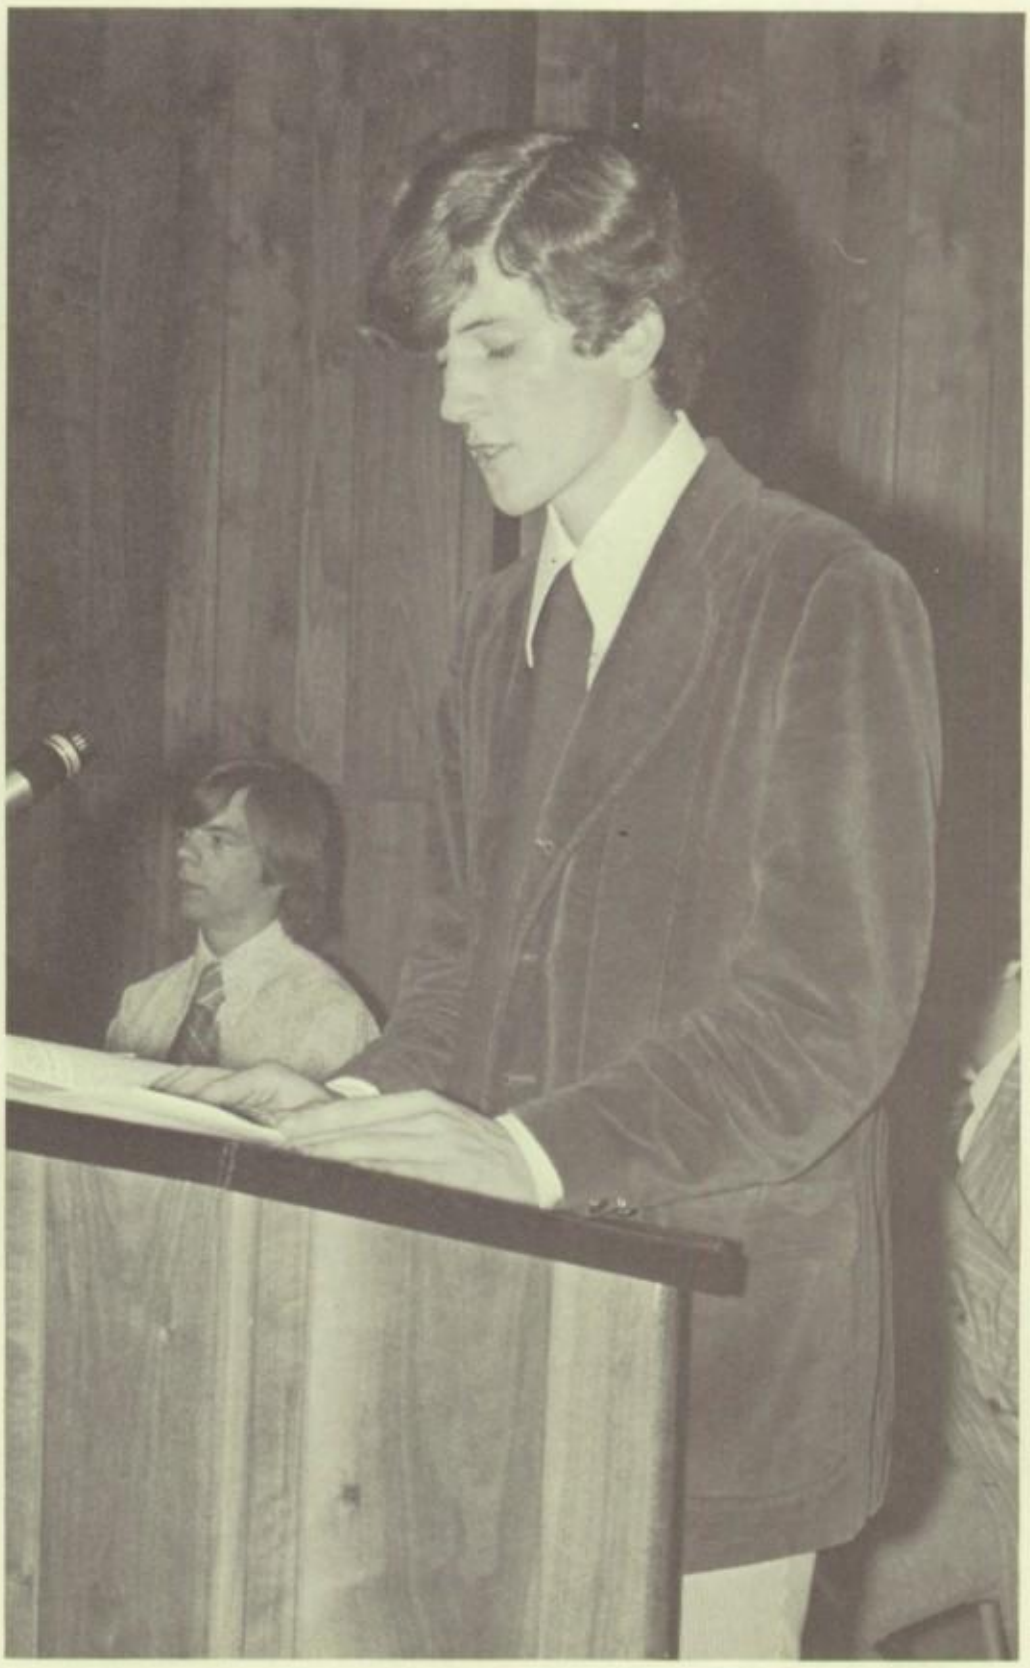
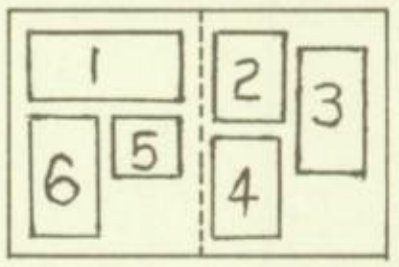
the morning of may twelfth, nineteen hundred seventy two dawned on the class of seventy three as one of great expectations. as each person peered into the river of times past, he saw the reflection of a fulfilling life at sfs. this was ring day, a one-of-a-kind day, a day of transcendence, a fleeting moment that would never be experienced again. the ceremony passed . . . the breakfast followed . . . the yearbooks were distributed . . . then thoughts turned to the pleasures of the evening.





1. father healy and brother dorazio inspect the yearbook at the class of 73's ring breakfast. 2. bob nitkiewicz, junior class president receives his ring from father healy. 3. bob nitkiewicz addresses junior class at ring breakfast. 4. mr. yost looks on as father healy gives greg bieszcad his class ring. 5. mike matuszewski marvels at accolade photography. 6. junior class officers bring gifts to the altar.
